

Tired but Smiling, Queen Boards Ship

VANCOUVER (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip boarded HMCS Assiniboine here at 10.35 p.m. PDT for a leisurely cruise across the Strait of Georgia to Nanaimo, ending a hectic 12-hour visit to New Westminster and Vancouver. It was obvious the Queen was weary but she still smiled at some remarks the captain made as she went aboard.

After CPR Scurrah Backs Ferry

Mayor Percy Scurrah gave unqualified support yesterday to an Oak Bay plan to ask the provincial government to seek a CPR or Black Ball ferry service from Sidney to the mainland after September, when CPR sailings from Victoria end.

Oak Bay will ask the government to seek such a service until the new government ferry service begins.

"I certainly will support that idea," Mayor Scurrah said.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said his council would decide whether or not it would give its support. But personally, he said, he believed the matter was "a little outside the province" of a municipal council.

Parliament Acts

Humane Killing Passed

OTTAWA (UPI)—The House of Commons last night passed legislation to provide for the humane slaughter of animals used for food, despite opposition protests that it didn't say just what "humane slaughter" was.

Third reading was given the bill after defeat of a Liberal amendment aimed at protection of "any religious rights or practices presently enjoyed by anyone in Canada."

Bennett Bets His Road Is Faster

LADNER, B.C. (CP)—Premier Bennett said yesterday he has a $1 bet with Governor Albert Rosellini of Washington State over who will have a first-class highway built to the United States border first.

The premier disclosed the bet to a crowd of about 5,000 who were on hand to witness the opening of the $23,000,000 Deas Island Tunnel across the Fraser River near here.

The tunnel is part of a four-lane freeway which will eventually be extended to the border.

"I don't know yet whether it will be paid off in American or the Canadian dollar," he said.

Kamloops Plane Crash Kills Two

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Two men were killed Wednesday night when their light training plane crashed and burned during an attempted landing here. The victims were not immediately identified.

The plane struck a telephone line, somersaulted and exploded about one-half mile from the airfield. The bodies were badly burned.

GAY, SPRUCED-UP VICTORIA AWAITS QUEEN'S ARRIVAL

All Hotels, Motels Jammed As Thousands Flock Here

Victoria is ready.

The streets have been cleaned and the flags and pennants — more than 3,000 flags and pennants — have been hung.

New gilt paint has been worked into the carved lettering on the statue of Queen Victoria in front of the legislative buildings and the cenotaph has been thoroughly scrubbed.

SHORT ONE STAR

The Union Jack is running a close second to the Red Ensign and at least one 48-star United States flag flies in casual disregard of the fate of Alaska.

The message "Victoria Welcomes Her Majesty" is ready to carve its bright image into the night sky over Government Street above the Causeway, and the lush lawn of the Empress Hotel has been freshly cut.

BLUE CANOPY

A royal blue canopy has been erected at the entrance to the legislative buildings where Queen Elizabeth will be welcomed to Canada's only city bearing the name of a once-reigning British monarch.

The ceremonies at the legislative buildings start at 5.10 p.m. today and are scheduled to last an hour.

ARRIVAL TIME

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip are expected to reach Government House at 3.45 p.m. after a motor trip down the Island from Nanaimo. (See adjoining royal procession route.)

Thousands upon thousands of visitors poured into the city yesterday from up-Island points, the United States and the British Columbia mainland.

HOTELS JAMMED

Hotels are jammed and there is hardly a vacant motel unit within five miles of the heart of the city.

"We had no idea it would be anything like this," said a motel proprietor who one month ago reported not a single reservation for the week of the royal tour.

"We're putting up a Portland couple in our own home," said the manager of another auto court.

CAUGHT UNAWARES

"They just seemed to come so quickly that they caught us without all our units made up," said still another.

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau has been deluged with calls from tourists who want accommodation in or close to the city.

SPECIAL REQUESTS

An eastern photographer who many years ago took a picture of a group of the Queen's ancestors, asked if a ceremony could be arranged so he could present the royal couple with a copy of the picture.

A retired American general telephoned long-distance from the U.S. to see if he could reserve a seat near the Queen for the military presentation of the color scheduled for Friday in Beacon Hill Park.

VACATIONS EXTENDED

Tourist officials said many of Victoria's visitors, here for several days already, are extending their vacations "just so they can see Her Majesty."

Weather outlook for the three-day visit of the Queen is bright, according to Victoria weatherman William Mackie. Tens of thousands of Victorians and visitors are expected to line city streets later today when the royal cavalcade cruises onto Douglas Street from the Island Highway about 3.10 p.m.

Busload Snarled In Red Tape

Angry Americans Leave Vowing Never to Return

A chartered busload of indignant United States tourists left Victoria last night vowing never to return.

The organizer of the tour, Mrs. Esther James of Salt Lake City, who has been conducting an average of four tours of Western Canada each year, departed vowing she wouldn't be bringing any more to this country.

The ill feeling arose when the tour got snarled up in regulations and the 31 members, mostly elderly, abandoned cherished plans to visit Butchart Gardens.

Mrs. James said she was refused permission to take the members of her tour party from downtown Victoria to Butchart Gardens in the chartered bus driven by Marvin Dieter of Salt Lake City.

NO COMPLICATION

The group had come ashore in Sidney from the Washington State ferry earlier in the day and had driven into Victoria from there without complication.

In Victoria the bus was parked while the tourist group went on a Tally-Ho tour. When they returned to their bus, eager to visit the famous gardens at Brentwood, they ran into trouble.

Mrs. James said her driver found a note in the bus saying "See me before you leave the city" and signed by "a Mr. Cox of Blue Line."

"She said when her driver did as requested he was asked 'What are you trying to do? Are you trying to pick up passengers in the city?'"

CHECK WITH PUC

When her driver replied "No, I'm not," he was told to check with the Public Utilities Commission, Mrs. James said.

B. L. Cox, supervisor for Royal Blue Line Tours, confirmed that he had asked the American bus driver to "drop into" his office.

The supervisor said he asked the visiting driver if he had proper permits and licenses to come into the province and if they were planning a sight-seeing tour.

He said when the driver told him "Yes," he advised him to get in touch with the PUC.

FRANCHISED AREA

"They were coming into a franchised area where operators pay heavy taxes and licenses to transport tourists about," the Victoria tour supervisor said.

"They could have left their coach in town and travelled otherwise (to Butchart Gardens) or each passenger could have paid the regular $3.50 rate charged by local carriers," he pointed out.

Publicity bureau director George I. Warren said the Blue Line supervisor "had no right interfering."

If the bus had permits and licenses to enter the province in the first place they should be able to tour where they want to, he said.

'Good Time Until Victoria'

"It is certainly a shame they left our Island with a bad taste before something could be arranged," he said.

While waiting for a Washington State ferry to take the touring party back to Anacortes last night Mrs. James said she had phoned the Public Utilities Commission and was told "we couldn't go to the gardens unless our permit was altered to allow us to charge the regular fare."

She said by this time the group had become so discouraged and disgusted they decided to return to Sidney and the return ferry and forego the gardens tour.

"We were very happy about Canada on our 10-day tour up to that point," Mrs. James said. "But we feel differently now—especially about Victoria."

"I have enough trouble with my own passengers without trying to pick up others," she said. "I have spent more than $2,500 on this Canadian trip in meals and accommodation. The passengers also spend plenty as they travel. The trip was wonderful until we got to Victoria."

Where to See Queen Today

For the hundreds hoping to see Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip during their drives through Victoria today, here again are their routes and the slow areas for best viewing:

3.30 p.m.—After driving in Island Highway, party arrives on Douglas at Fisgard; slow on Douglas to Yates; to Cook; medium Cook to Rockland to Government House.

5 p.m.—Medium speed Government House on Rockland to Moss to Fort to Blanshard; slow on Fort to Douglas, Belleville, Menzies to legislative buildings.

6.15 p.m.—From legislative buildings, slow on Belleville, Government, Herald, North Park, Quadra, Pandora, Oak Bay and Rockland to Government House.

KATOWICE, Poland (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev delivered an attack on religion Wednesday before a crowd of Roman Catholic Poles.

The 66-year-old Soviet leader, looking weary and worn, arrived in this mining town with Polish Communist chief Wladislaw Gomulka.

"I do not want to wound your religious sentiments," Khrushchev said, "but I want to underline that priests in your church promise you paradise in the sky after you are dead. But we Communists make you happy on earth."

Man, 77, Beaten, Robbed

An elderly Victorian was attacked in his home on quiet Balmoral Street, beaten about the head and robbed of an amount reported to be about $100 early today.

Samuel Smith, 77, 1017 Balmoral, was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital shortly before 1 a.m. from his one-storey frame cottage. He was suffering from head injuries and shock, hospital authorities said, but was conscious when brought in.

Photographic staff of The Daily Colonist has been doubled for the period of the royal tour in order to bring readers two or three extra pages of pictures a day while Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip are in Victoria. Watch for first extra picture pages tomorrow.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

JASPER, Alta.—We followed a bear down the street in this mountain town. Luckily for us, we didn't catch it.

The black shape ambled across our field of vision as we walked through Jasper town in the half-hour that we had before our Canadian National Railways train started east again.

"Let's follow it," said my wife.

"We haven't time," I objected. We had already squandered part of our half-hour in a souvenir shop and soda fountain. But the small boys were so excited at the notion of seeing a real bear at large in the streets, that I hadn't the heart to frustrate them.

So I ran ahead and rounded a corner. Directly ahead down an alley was the bear, rooting in an oil drum that was in use as a garbage can.

"I'll go and touch him," said small Michael. Ahead of us, a youth had alighted from a truck and snapped a picture of the bear. The bear, standing on his hind legs with a piece of paper stuck to his nose, looked around with an air of mild curiosity.

"Don't go," I told Michael. "He's dangerous."

For once, the boys were instantly obedient. Something must have told them that I meant what I said. What a pity that fathers don't always have a piece of stage property like a bear close at hand to enforce their commands.

Some Dispute about Route

With a lingering look at the bear, who continued to loot the garbage can, we turned and moved back toward the station.

Two rangers from Jasper National Park, in their greenish-khaki uniforms, were returning to their station wagon. "Do bears often come into town?" I asked.

"Quite often," one of them said. "If they get rambunctious, we have to come and trap them."

"We lost a little girl, killed by a bear, on the road some way from here," the other ranger said.

My wife and I and the boys had some difference of opinion as to the route that we would follow back to the train. But we decided to retrace our steps, down the same street. So we passed the soda fountain and gift shop. The boys clutched a popsicle and a toy car each.

It was a richly-stocked gift shop. Hand-made beaded belts from the Prairie Indians were stocked alongside cheap china totem poles, copied from a Haida design. A mountain scene, hand-painted in bright colors on a moose horn, hung on the wall, priced at $15.

There was a rack full of walking canes with curved heads, colored in imitation, I thought, of the "talking sticks" that some important Coast Indians of the old school have.

I was surprised at the prominence of Coast Indian designs, both real and shoddy imitation, so far inland.

Totem Far from Home

East of the railway station stood a beautiful, full-sized Haida totem pole. I found it saddening to reflect that only two poles remained standing in the Haida's home islands.

To the ordinary visitor, travelling through by rail, both the totem pole and the beaded buckskin were Indian work.

But to the Indian who knew his native traditions, one was just as alien to the other as English gravestones are as compared to the figures carved on a Hindu temple.

The moment we got back aboard the train, our boys accosted all the people they saw, and told them about the bear.

"We saw a bear, and he didn't eat us," piped Michael, with all the enthusiasm of a four-year-old. "He was a mountain bear, and he was eating garbage."

One lady—an American. I think—smiled indulgently down at the small boy. She flashed me a kind, knowing look.

"He says 'gah-bage,'" she remarked to her travelling companion, with the air of one who points out some local color.

'King's' Mexican To See Color Rite

When Queen Elizabeth presents her new colors to the King's Own Calgary Rifles in Beacon Hill Park tomorrow she will be watched by a man believed to be the only Mexican to serve in the Canadian forces during the Second World War.

Jesus Nava of Guadalajara, Mexico, flew here from his home yesterday to be on hand for the color ceremony at the invitation of his former regiment.

With him is his English wife whom he married shortly after going overseas with the Calgary regiment.

FORMER COMMANDER
And with the Navas yesterday was retired Brig. G. R. Bradbrooke, former commander of the regiment and the man who gave the couple official consent to marry.

Mr. Nava joined the Canadian forces in 1940 through the Seaforth Highlanders and a recruiting officer who told him Mexicans were not admitted to the army—but who suggested he change his name and birthplace.

Nava did an about-face and came back—all six feet, four inches of him—as George Hodgins of Toronto, and kept the fictitious name throughout the war, although his comrades called him "Mex."

"I got into the war because I was younger and more fool-

JESUS "MEX" NAVA
... or George Hodgins

ish than I am now, and also because I thought I should fight," he said yesterday.

His former commanding officer chuckled yesterday as the lumbering Mexican recounted his rise to the rank of sergeant and ultimate descent back to trooper.

Nava transferred to the King's Own when it was reactivated in 1941 and served in Sicily, Italy, Holland and Belgium.

Hectic Vancouver Round

Queen Finds Pace Of Tour 'Intensive'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Queen Elizabeth raised her familiar beige parasol against the afternoon sun Wednesday as she and her husband made a hectic and formal tour of the Vancouver area.

But she showed few outward signs of tiring of the activity.

The 75-degree heat caused four cadets to faint during the royal couple's visit to Empire Stadium, where only 12,000 of an expected 30,000 children gathered to see the Queen.

FACE 'INTENSIVE'

Some hint that the Queen might enjoy a lighter schedule came during a civic luncheon earlier in the day when she chatted with Mayor Tom Alsbury.

The mayor said later that the Queen might enjoy a lighter schedule during a civic luncheon earlier in the day when she chatted with Mayor Tom Alsbury.

Outwardly, at least however, she appeared quite relaxed Wednesday in spite of facing eight events in 12 hours.

ATMOSPHERE RELAXED

The official stops were formal but on the streets, where hundreds of thousands lined routes through New Westminster, Surrey, Richmond and Vancouver a relaxed atmosphere persisted.

Clothing ranged from shorts and haltered women to turbaned Sikhs, from business suits and cocktail dresses to tennis shorts and nursing uniforms.

The Queen, laughing and joking through event after event and displaying a lively interest in everything around her, wore an outfit in turquoise and white.

SAME OUTFIT

The Queen wore the same outfit throughout the day's program, but changed to formal attire for dinner at the University of B.C. There she wore a white satin evening dress with bodice and hem appliqued with rose-colored lace re-embroidered with pink crystals. She also wore a diamond and pearl tiara and necklace and large pearl tear-drop earrings.

The Duke changed to formal tie and tails for the evening.

TOUR STARTS

The Queen and Prince Philip left the royal train at 10 a.m. in New Westminster, where 1,000 turned out, then drove two miles past several thousand persons to Queen's Park.

As the train came into the station, it passed the stone-walled B.C. penitentiary and as the royal couple drove to the park, they passed 35 inmates, many shirtless, working in a prison field. The prisoners didn't wave, just stared.

ANVIL SALUTE
In the park, where 4,000 children half-filled the Queen's Park stadium, the ancient and honorable Anvil battery fired a unique 21-blast salute.

The royal motorcade then drove more than 20 miles through New Westminster and surrounding municipalities to reach the $23,000,000 Deas Island tunnel for an official opening ceremony.

The Queen snipped a blue ribbon with a pair of silver shears handed her by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, then tugged unsuccessfully at a cord that was to unveil a plaque.

OLD CUSTOM
To keep up an old English custom, she gave the premier a Canadian dime in return for the scissors, a move that is to prevent hostility between friends.

Then she laughed off the unveiling incident, turning to the premier with a smile and saying: "It seems to be stuck."

The duke got a laugh, too. Pointing to an amateur photographer who had sneaked in among the newspaper men on hand, he said: "Everybody's trying to get into the act."

WORST SINCE ELVIS

From the tunnel, the procession wound into Vancouver. Throughout the route to the Hotel Vancouver, thousands lined the streets and the numbers kept the motorcade pace down until the Queen was 10 minutes behind schedule.

"It's the worst crowd situation since Elvis Presley," said one police sergeant.

OFF TO ISLAND

A civic luncheon, visits to a military hospital and a stadium filled with children, a formal university dinner and brief stops at theatre performances followed before departure aboard HMCS Assiniboine for Vancouver Island.

JAPANESE UNIONS

The total trades union membership in Japan is between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 workers.

LIEUT. DAVID SNOWBALL
... what a laugh

From Germany, That Is He Just Dropped In For Queen's Visit

A courtesy invitation to a PPCLI lieutenant stationed in Germany with the British Army, to attend Friday's color ceremony in Beacon Hill Park, has brought an unexpected result—the lieutenant, himself.

"I was sitting in the mess in Wuppertal, near Düsseldorf, in West Germany with the invitation, thinking what a laugh it would be if I accepted," Lieut. David Snowball said last night in Victoria.

WROTE FRIEND
"So I wrote a friend in the War Office in London, flew to England by commercial airliner, hitched a lift in the Comet which flew to Vancouver for the big air show, and flew to Victoria in a commercial aircraft."

Lieut. Snowball will act as an usher during the color ceremony in Beacon Hill Park, when Queen Elizabeth will present new colors to the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Lieut. Snowball spent nine months in Victoria with the PPCLI before being sent to Germany on exchange with the British Army. He is at present on annual leave.

Monday morning he will begin his hitch-hiking back to Germany. He hopes to fly from Vancouver to Montreal, to Toronto, to Goose Bay by RCAF.

At Goose Bay he will take his chances of getting an airlift back to Germany before the end of his leave, Aug. 6.

While officers, women guests, RCMP and civilians stand during royal tour ceremony in Quebec, lone

Did Officer Ignore Playing of Anthem?

TORONTO (CP)—Did an officer of the Royal 22nd Regiment remain seated during the playing of God Save the Queen at a royal tour ceremony in Quebec City?

A photograph showing an officer seated amid a group of standing officers was published by the Toronto Star June 24. The caption said the photo was taken during the playing of the national anthem as the Queen and Prince Philip arrived at the Plains of Abraham, outside Quebec City, June 23.

CAPTION WRONG

Wednesday, in a letter published by The Star, Maj.-Gen. George P. Vanier of Montreal, colonel of the Royal 22nd, says the caption was in error.

Gen. Vanier, a diplomat and soldier who has been reported likely to succeed Vincent Massey as Governor-General, attended the Quebec ceremony. He said he interviewed the officer concerned after receiving a print of The Star photo and was assured that the officer did not sit for the national anthem.

WORD ACCEPTED

"I accept this officer's word unreservedly," the letter says, "more especially as it is obvious that God Save the Queen is not being played when he is shown sitting. You will have noticed that the other officers in the photograph are not saluting as they would if God Save the Queen were being played."

The only explanation, Gen. Vanier writes, is that "the of-

YUKON GOLD RUSH

The discovery that led to the Klondike gold rush in the Yukon Territory was made at Bonanza Creek on Aug. 17, 1896.

ficer in question may have risen later than or sat down before those around him."

He says the charge is "a very serious one for the regiment as well as for the officer" and calls it "the most cruel blow I have received during the 45 years of my association with the regiment."

The officer concerned is not identified by Gen. Vanier but is described as a high-ranking officer of 25 years' service who commanded a battalion of the regiment during the Second World War and was decorated for gallantry.

DIDN'T GET UP

An editor's note published under the letter quotes Eddy Roworth, a Star reporter-photographer, as saying the officer he photographed did not stand during an abridged version of the anthem.

"I kept my eye on him. He didn't get up," Roworth is quoted.

Half a Million Men Idle

Steel Strike Spreads

Transport, Shipping Coal Also Affected

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The sixth major steel strike since the war choked off nearly 90 per cent of America's steel industry Wednesday and quickly spread to allied fields.

More than 500,000 steelworkers were idle with widespread effects in transportation, coal, maritime and other industries.

The Pennsylvania Railroad laid off 6,200 employees; Great Lakes shippers started tying up their boats; and steel-owned coal mines closed down. A spokesman for the railroad said the strike will cost the railroad about 20 per cent of its freight business.

Under pressure from President Eisenhower the steel industry and the United Steelworkers agreed to meet with federal mediation chief Joseph F. Finnegan to find some way of settling the strike.

The steelworkers are seeking a new contract embodying a wage increase. Latest government figures pegged their average pay at $3.10 an hour.

The effects of the steel strike also began spreading to Canada. Montreal representatives of the United Steelworkers of America said the northern Quebec and Labrador mines of Iron Ore of Canada and Steep Rock Mines, west of Lake Superior, will not be able to deliver iron ore to their U.S. customers.

God save the Queen.

Thy choicest gifts in store
On her be pleased to pour;
Long may she reign;
May she defend our laws,
And ever give us cause
To sing with heart and voice,
God save the Queen.

Our loved Dominion bless
With peace and happiness
From shore to shore;
And let our Empire be Loyal, united, free,
True to herself and thee
For evermore.

Amen.

Forever Welcome

PROMPTLY at 3.45 p.m. today when the Royal Standard is hoisted over Government House, the First Lady of Canada will be in residence in this westernmost capital of the Dominion. As Queen of Canada and Head of the Commonwealth, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II carries with her the heart of the realm; not only the fealty and loyalty which are hers of right but also the esteem and affection that are the free will offerings of her people. While Victorians have the reputation of being shy, undemonstrative and too often mute on such occasions, no one need doubt the warmth of the welcome that will be given by them everywhere. It will be deep and sincere.

In many ways this will be a most memorable Royal visit. The first onerous and arduous years of a new reign have gone by since Her Majesty as Princess Elizabeth was here with the Duke of Edinburgh in 1951. To the capital city of British Columbia today it is as the homecoming of beloved friends. Supporting the formal welcomes by Province and City which will ensue will be the genuine delight created by this visit to the community, now 116 years old. It is fitting also that the first guests at the new Government House will be Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip. The Commonwealth around, no guests could be more heartily and happily welcome.

It is unnecessary to recall to this community the gracious presence here in former times of Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother and King George VI, and that of Her Royal Highness the Princess Margaret; nor the letters-patent signed by Queen Victoria more than a century ago initiating the first colony of Vancouver Island with this as its capital. When Her Majesty presents her Color to two Canadian regiments during her stay she will be knitting together precious memories of the past and the present. Long may they linger, like a benediction in the land.

Canada for Sale!

SOME states of the Union do not know much about Canada, as a tourist from here might discover if he proffered a Canadian dollar in isolated centres. One had thought however that in a city like Indianapolis its largest newspaper would have a modicum of knowledge about America's close neighbor to the north.

Tilting its lance at UN economists who reportedly blame the U.S. for not spending enough money to prosper the whole world, the Indianapolis Star asks why Russia can't underwrite the globe with rubles, or why England "can't sell Canada or Australia or some other real estate" to finance other nations in distress.

The Star has some reason to be wroth at UN economists. The United States has contributed untold billions in foreign aid since the war. Nothing like it has ever been known before. In this respect America has played an immense and major part in trying to keep the world on its feet. It cannot be expected to do it all.

Obviously the Indianapolis paper would be surprised if told that England could not do as Napoleon did when he sold Louisiana to the fledgling U.S.A. Apparently it is unaware of the true "real estate" picture and that its own country could as easily sell Brazil to China, or Mexico to Holland, as Britain could Canada or Australia to anyone else.

The Star's statement would be rhetorical but it is the instinct that prompted it which causes dismay. The Commonwealth and the independent nature of Canada patently is a closed book to Indianapolis editors. It is small wonder that difficulties arise between nations when a newspaper which guides public opinion seems so ignorant of the country which lies next door to its own.

Sirens Must Be Obeyed

A FEW months ago the police forces in this area launched a campaign to make drivers fully aware of their obligations at the approach of official vehicles sounding sirens or flashing red lights. The results were surprisingly good. In response to advice and appeals, backed by one or two salutary prosecutions, motorists generally accorded emergency vehicles the respect required by law, and were praised by the police for their good sense.

Unfortunately the improvement appears to have been short-lived. On Tuesday a car rushing a sick man to hospital for emergency treatment encountered a succession of hazardous situations all the way from the north end of Saanich Peninsula to the city, due to the failure of motorists to obey the siren of the escorting police car. An attendant travelling with the patient said afterwards that 40 per cent of the drivers passed along the route paid no attention to the warnings.

It is astonishing that drivers who disregard these clear and unmistakable warnings should have such small regard for their own safety, even if they have none for the men on duty who have to risk their lives every time they make emergency journeys. In very few instances is there any valid excuse. Official vehicles here are not given to unnecessary use of their warning devices, as is the case in some cities. They are turned on only when haste is imperative and safety—which includes that of other drivers met on the way—demands a clear passage. To disregard a siren or a red light is to invite disaster.

Interpreting the News

Kozlov's Two Fronts

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FOR the second time within seven months the United States has been stumped by a Russian first deputy premier acting for all the world like a politician after votes.

Frol Romanovich Kozlov, who left for Moscow after a coast-to-coast tour, used the gimmicks of the politician but at the same time managed to hammer on the Communist line repeatedly and with force.

The man who is said to be second in power in the Kremlin only to Premier Khrushchev was full of boisterous greetings and hearty handshakes for Americans.

He signed hundreds of autographs with a show of pleasure and was a photographer's delight. He posed with beauty queens and in fatherly hugs with small boys. He wore a six-shooter and waved a cowboy hat over his head in the traditional way.

But reports from across the country indicate that the public response to Kozlov—apart from curiosity—was apathetic. Somehow people just didn't believe the picture of the Kremlin bigwig as a good-natured tourist seeking friendship with everybody.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THIS afternoon I shall be standing on the veld of the Roundabout waiting to see the Queen arrive. For me, although not for the sovereign naturally, it will be a case of renewing acquaintance.

I last saw her driving along the Mall after the Coronation, as she returned from a tour of the little streets of the little people in London.

That was the highlight of their Coronation celebrations.

The Queen, I wrote then, was "supremely lovely," and continued:

"It would be wrong to say she looked refreshed after a night's sleep, for never once during the long and arduous Coronation Day program did she appear strained or tired. But the tension was off and she was gay, sparkling."

And while touring the streets with their multitude of spectators the sun came out and put a halo above her smiles.

I hope the sun comes out today; if not it is wasting itself as I write these words. A royal occasion deserves royal weather. Even a queen's appearance is enhanced by the kindness of the elements, not to mention the comfort of the thousands of Victorians who will be agog to see her again.

How will she look? As refreshing to gaze upon, I dare say, as that day six years ago.

The maxim is that the camera never lies but this is not true, for like her mother the Queen is fairer far than any lens admits. If you see her at close range during the next few days you will agree that photographs seldom do her justice.

She will have gained in poise and regal bearing since she was here as a princess in 1951. Seven years a sovereign undoubtedly will have made its imprint, in case and panache.

I remember well the almost tentative manner of the young Elizabeth in Westminster Abbey, recollections of the Coronation flooding my mind as they do this morning.

All through the complicated pattern of ceremony the young Elizabeth moved with impeccable step, yet there was a wistful simplicity about her that seemed spiritual in quality. This was especially so when she laid aside her velvet parliament robe for the anointing, the most sacred part of the ceremony.

So slight a figure, she looked, to dedicate herself to the never-ending and arduous tasks of sovereignty. John Buchan it was who wrote in "The King's Grace" that the only respite from this high estate is death. But this is no morning for gloomy thoughts. The Queen is young, vibrant, and we hope will be with us for decades yet to come.

The Coronation was a solemn if superb circumstance, the acme of medieval pomp and panoply. The Queen's visit to Victoria is akin to her post-Coronation drives throughout London, informal by comparison and attuned to a gay and holiday spirit even if there is no public holiday.

It is an event that of necessity can be repeated only at long intervals, so we should all make the most of it.

The Queen comes to us after a fatiguing cross-country journey replete with the kind of functions that await her here. We have nothing fresh to offer her; except perhaps a specially warm welcome.

We are glad to greet her because she symbolizes the headship of the nation, and in herself she warrants our esteem as a woman of fine worth and quality.

Supreme Symbol of Unity

The Queen and the Commonwealth

By DERMOT MORRAH, of The College of Arms

THE Queen is the head of the whole Commonwealth, and also of each of its constituent parts except India, Pakistan and the Federation of Malaya. India and Pakistan having in 1947 been invested by consent with full freedom to determine their own constitutions chose (in 1950 and 1956, respectively) to become republics. The Federation of Malaya, since achieving full independence in 1957, has been a monarchy under a local sovereign—the Yang di-Pertuan Agong. Consequently the Queen is not the head of these societies, nor does her name appear in their constitutions. They have, however, chosen to remain freely associated with the other members of the British Commonwealth, and recognize the Queen as the head of the Commonwealth and the symbol of the free association of its independent member states.

In the remaining six overseas members of the Commonwealth—Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Ceylon and Ghana—the formal position of the Queen is the same as it is in the United Kingdom. These countries are now in no way subject to the United Kingdom or to one another, or to any government representing them all; but each is subject to the Queen. The sovereign in whose name they are to be governed is defined for them by the rules of inheritance laid down in the Act of Settlement, which was in origin an act of the English Parliament; but by the Statute of Westminster, 1931, it was declared that any alteration in the law touching the succession to the Throne or the royal styles and titles require the assent of the parliaments of all the dominions. Thus the unity of the common Crown is secured; it is in fact the only formal bond of unity that the Commonwealth now possesses.

As head of society the Queen cannot delegate her functions. As head of the state she is represented in each of these sovereign nations by a governor-general. She appoints him, but does so on the advice of her ministers in the country concerned, who thereupon become his ministers. The governor-general summons and dissolves parliament, opens it with a Speech from the Throne, and gives assent—which is nevertheless called the royal assent—to its measures. Similarly he selects a statesman to form a government as prime minister and is henceforth, as "the governor-general in council" guided in all his executive functions by ministerial advice. He appoints the judges and in that sense is the head of the judiciary, like the Queen whom he represents.

The governor-general, however, is not the fountain of honor; all distinctions and decorations throughout the Commonwealth are awarded in the name of the Queen herself. Nor is he the head of the church, for the Churches of England and Scotland are "established" only in those countries.

In Canada and Australia, which have federal constitutions, there is besides the governor-general a governor (lieutenant-governor in the case of Canada) for each constituent province or state. He too represents the Queen directly and thereby shows that, within the sphere of activity allowed to it by law, the government of which he is head is independent of the authority of the central power at Ottawa or Canberra.

SINCE her accession to the Throne the Queen has gone far to complete her knowledge of the wide Commonwealth of which she is head. On these journeys about the Commonwealth, as with visits within the United Kingdom, the object it always essentially the same—to enlarge the Queen's range of acquaintance with her subjects and their homes, and give the greatest possible number of people an opportunity to see her and perhaps converse with her.

Another object of a royal tour is to give the people visited their fair share of pageantry and ceremonial. There are processions through the streets, reviews of troops, state banquets and speeches. If possible a state opening of parliament—the most solemn royal act after a coronation—is arranged, and carried out with a very close imitation of the ancient ceremonial at Westminster.

The Queen has now carried out this historic ceremony in Ottawa, Wellington, Canberra and Colombo, besides the capitals of several Australian states. It is possible that she will do the same at Accra when she visits Ghana in November this year. And as heiress presumptive she saw parliaments opened by her father in Cape Town and Salisbury, then the capital of Southern Rhodesia, and now of the Central African Federation.

THE Commonwealth, of which the Queen is so vivid a symbol, and of which, in spite of its vastness, she is at pains to acquire such a wide personal knowledge, has been expanding and evolving until it consists of ten sovereign nations besides numerous dependencies at different stages on the road to full membership.

The Queen is for all these peoples the supreme symbol of unity; and in many aspects she is—like the magical sacrificial kings of the dawn of history—the embodiment of the life of the people, so that what is done for her is done for all.

This much is true in a broad sense even of those Commonwealth countries which are republics, and of the Federation of Malaya, which has its own monarch. For the rest, the vast majority of the Queen is not only head of the Commonwealth but Queen of their country. A minister may owe his position to his party; but on being appointed to office he becomes the Queen's servant and knows that he must use his powers for the benefit, not of his own supporters, but of all her subjects.

A Bill may have been bitterly opposed at every stage of its passage through parliament; but when it receives the royal assent it becomes one of the Queen's laws, and binding upon all who respect her authority.

The Queen is the symbol of the unity of her peoples, not only in space but also in time. Just as she links their several communities across the oceans, so also she connects them with their ancestors and with their posterity. She is of one blood with all the British monarchs who have gone before her, at whose feet the splendid achievements of the peoples in the past were laid, and they know that in the centuries to come her descendants will still be the incarnation of the living tradition when a new generation comes to lay its trophies on the steps of the Throne.

This is the meaning of all the pomp and circumstance by which royalty is surrounded. The stately and glittering ceremonial, the magnificence of scarlet and gold, would be vulgar ostentation if they were intended for the personal glorification of one human being, however eminent or loved. They are in fact the splendid frame in which the nation sets the picture of its own historic greatness, which it chooses to make visible in the portrait of its dedicated head. By thus creating a symbolic picture of themselves, not as they are in the dust and clangour of their daily life, but as in their most exalted moments they dream that they might be, they are helped to think more nobly of their labor and their destiny.

BUT if this were all, if the Queen were no more than a symbol designed to crystallize the patriotism of the people and their loyalty to the state, her place might be taken by a flag, or a constitutional document, or the graven image that Nebuchadnezzar the king set up for an enslaved people to worship.

According to the British way of life, it is essential that the august symbol should also be a person, whom the people can not only venerate from afar but feel that they personally know, who is indeed one of themselves. She preserves for them the assurance that, beyond all the complexities and formalities of modern government, beyond the apparently soulless apparatus of officialdom and the deep planning which is believed to occupy the incomprehensible minds of statesmen, the ultimate reality for the sake of which all this vast machinery exists is the human being.

As the years pass this special quality will grow more pronounced, set her in one sense more apart from all other living men and women, yet in another unite her more intimately to her own.

Of her statesmen throughout the Commonwealth, some will fall from power and some will leave the stage forever; but she will still be in her place. All her ministers, everywhere, have their vision limited by the particular national horizon within which their commission to serve her is held. She alone has the duty, and the opportunity, to see the Commonwealth steadily and see it whole.

And in the deepest sense it is only through the existence of at least one mind that can thus comprehend it as a whole that the unity of the Commonwealth itself becomes an objective reality and not a figure of rhetoric.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

ONE of my closest friends and companions is the kind of man who, at bedtime, goes to the clothes closet door and kicks his slippers off into the dark interior. Then, next morning, when he goes for his slippers, it is wonderful to hear him swearing and groaning while he gropes around trying to find them.

It is fifty years or more since I first explained to him that the secret of finding your slippers in the morning is to set them in the closet neat and tidy; like this. And I would then set him the virtuous example. And there in the morning were my slippers, plain as day, right where I left them.

In the fifty years, I have repeated to him this counsel and this example a hundred or more times. But he is just as bad in his sixties as he was in his teens.

On a recent fishing trip, we were incarcerated in the same hotel room and had to use the same clothes closet. Flick, flap went his slippers into the closet. Rather pointedly, I set mine neatly just inside the door.

In the morning, do you know what he did?

He opened the clothes closet door and kicked my slippers out of sight. "You live your life," he said, "and I'll live mine."

Letters to the Editor

Minority Pressure

Reviewing the article on the future of View Royal, several salient points come to mind.

(1) There are co-owners (man and wife) who exercise two votes per property, whether pro or con.

(2) There are other and larger properties held in clear title by single owners who may vote only one vote per property.

The younger (eager beavers) owning a home, as well as the mortgage on it, and using co-owner votes could easily outvote the older and more stable owners.

The older owners of long residence made View Royal what it is, a quiet residential area, very desirable in these days and attractive to many people who wish a restful life without modern-day entanglements of officialdom and troublesome laws and regulations. Had these latter newcomers and owners wished modern developments they could have established residence in other areas in and around Victoria where all modern facilities are already available.

Most residents feel this "village" idea is being foisted on them by a minority who "want to do something" regardless of consequences, and make the area modern by present-day standards of facilities. A vote on the fair basis of one vote only per property would indicate View Royal residents as a whole wish to be left alone to enjoy the serenity of a friendly community.

Reynolds Road Speedway

I think some action should be taken to curb the speed of cars and trucks using Reynolds Road and Cedar Hill Cross Road. There are no sidewalks on Reynolds or on that part of Cedar Hill Cross Road from Blenkinsop, and pedestrians and school children using these roads are in constant danger from passing vehicles.

Some motorists must think they are on the highway where speed limits to 60 miles per hour are allowed, but this is a residential district where the 30 miles per hour should be enforced. On Reynolds Road there is a playground zone but seldom do motorists heed the "slow" signs which are posted at both ends.

Before we have other serious accidents happen I would like to suggest that the "slow" signs on Reynolds at the playground be replaced with 15 miles per hour signs; 30 miles per hour signs be erected at the entrance to Reynolds at Quadra and also at Cedar Hill Cross Road near Blenkinsop; a stop sign be erected at the cut-off from Blenkinsop into Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Millionaire Unsound

Woman Told To Return $200,000

LONDON (CP) — A high court Wednesday ordered an English woman to give back more than $200,000 in gifts she received from an American millionaire now confined to a sanitarium at New Westminster, B.C.

The millionaire is George Westinghouse Jr., 76, described in court as son of the founder of Westinghouse Electric Company. The woman is Mrs. Grace Margaret Smith of Northwood, Middlesex.

Lawyers for the Royal Trust Company of Montreal, trustees of the estate, said he gave Mrs. Smith $208,000 in cash and stocks between November, 1954, and January, 1955. In July, 1955, he was legally declared to be of unsound mind.

Counsel for Mrs. Smith said she would not oppose the court order to give back the money.

Improvement At Elk Lake To Start Now

Construction of new dressing rooms and comfort station at Hamsterly Park at Elk Lake will begin immediately, assistant city engineer Roderick Clack announced yesterday, and the facilities are expected to be ready by the Labor Day weekend.

The dressing rooms and comfort station are the gift of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, which has put up $20,000 and indicated its interest in making further improvements in the park.

Construction contract has been awarded to M. P. Baine on a tender of $10,827. Mr. Clack said, and a $9,000 order has been placed for sewage treatment equipment and installation.

Convicts End Mine Revolt

PETROS, Tenn. (AP)—The 95 rebellious convicts at Brushy Mountain state prison ended their rebellion Tuesday and came peacefully down from the mountainside mine where they had been holed up since Monday.

The two hostages remaining in the mine preceded the convicts from the mine. They were unharmed.

Bargain for Canada Says CBC's Report

Costs Up —And Still Climbing

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, on the receiving end of few compliments but much criticism in the past six months, patted itself on the back yesterday.

Its 1959 annual report, tabled in Parliament by Revenue Minister Nowlan, claimed that the corporation was providing the nation with more entertainment, information and "enjoyment" at less cost than any other source.

The cost to the public in 1958-59, the report said, was $56,922,000.

"Surveys show the average family, or some members of it, watches TV or listens to radio a total of six hours a day, 365 days a year, yet the combined price tag in public funds comes to less than four cents a day per family for national TV and radio service.

MORE FOR LESS

"We believe Canadians get more entertainment, more information, more service and more enjoyment from broadcasting at less money—than from any other source."

Corporation president J. Alphonse Ouellet said costs were not through climbing. "The CBC faced 'heavy demands' for extended television and radio service, he said, and these could only be met through increased expenditures.

The report, which covered the 12 months up to March 31, gave little indication of the turbulence and controversy that has surrounded the publicly-owned corporation of recent months. It mentioned only one item in this category—the Montreal television producers' strike.

"DISRUPTED"

Mr. Ouellet said the dispute had "seriously disrupted" French-language TV operations. He added that it lasted some three months "despite the most exhaustive efforts."

The corporation balance sheet for the past fiscal year showed total operating costs of $87,314,553. It was an increase of $11,778,862 or 15.6 per cent from the previous 12-month period.

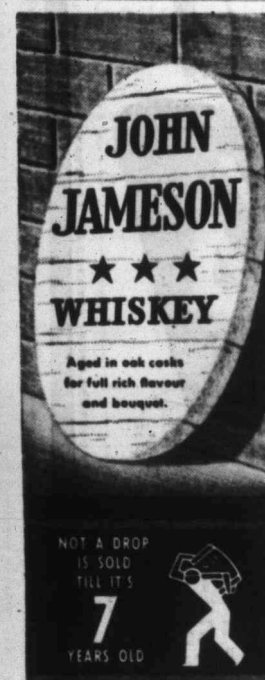

Commercial revenue, on the other side of the ledger, climbed to a record $32,093,505. It was up $3,682,591 or 13 per cent from 1957-58.

Mr. Ouellet took a shot at two commonly-held views on CBC operations.

ONLY PART WAY

On the suggestion that the corporation should attempt to operate more closely within the limits of its commercial revenue, he noted that these went only part of the way toward meeting the costs of the service. "Canadians demand," he discounted the idea that programming should be geared more closely to "ratings" and mass taste. "Program ratings may be a useful guide, he said, but they may also give 'little useful indication of the relative importance of a program to Canada as a whole."

I'm Going to Kill Your Mother'

SCHENECTADY, N.Y.—Frank Elia, 43, picked up his rifle Tuesday night, told his children, "I'm going to kill your mother," and headed for a nearby tavern.

There he pumped three bullets into the stomach of his wife Genevieve, 33. A fourth bullet hit a bystander, Richard Pike, 23. Both died. Another man was injured in the leg.

When police arrived, Elia said curtly: "I married a bum."

As they prepared to take him in on a charge of first-degree murder, a 12-year-old girl ran up.

"Did you do what you wanted to do, daddy?" she asked.

"You're darn right, and I didn't miss," he replied.

Hope, 56, came to Europe for a long rest to ease eye trouble caused by overwork, but when Sir Laurence Olivier asked him to help the charity, he said, "I'll be delighted to appear for the orphans — although they've never done a thing for me."

NORTH HOLLYWOOD — California's "cat burglar" confessed to "capering for at least five or six months, averaging four or five jobs a night" before his capture in Nevada. Gordon Ellis Atteberry, 24, also admitted shooting Constable Don May at Edwardsville, Kan., on July 4 when the officer asked him to show him his driver's licence.

Beautiful But Still Remote

Power project has raised level of famous Buttle Lake in Vancouver Island interior since this picture was taken, but trout fishing is reported as good as ever, and scenery little changed. Access is still a problem.

Let Campers Use That Gem

Please, Mr. Gagliardi Fix Buttle Lake Road

By ALEC MERRIMAN

PARKSVILLE — Oh please Mr. Gagliardi fix that road into Buttle Lake. And please Mr. Westwood get your park crews into the lake and provide some facilities for the hundreds of campers who are using and wish to use that little gem in the wilderness where the trout are biting like crazy.

Millions of dollars extra have been spent to preserve the amenities of Buttle Lake—and a good job has been done of clearing and grubbing right up to the new raised water line—but the job is only half done.

Conservationists who fought a long and hard battle to preserve Buttle Lake won a major victory when strict provisions to preserve the amenities of the lake were placed on the water licence which gave the B.C. Power Commission the right to dam and raise the level of the lake by 19 feet.

Those provisions included the clearing and provision of camping areas and a boat launching ramp. The BCPC was to provide the money to develop the area as the provincial park service directed.

But in the reorganization of the newly formed department of recreation and conservation that part of the agreement seems to have been forgotten, well known conservationist Roderick Haig-Brown, who was one of the leaders in the fight to save Buttle Lake points out. He warns that the area around Buttle is in danger of being contaminated by campers who are using the lake when no facilities have been provided.

Actually one outhouse has been provided at Buttle Lake and several rough areas have been bulldozed where campers may pitch a tent or launch a boat. But the areas are dusty and rough gravel not at all like the water licence provision led conservationists to believe would be built.

What are needed are some more attractive cleared areas some of which would only be accessible by boat, more outhouses and a few thick tables would be desirable. But the real need is a proper road into the lake.

Theatres Plan Midnight Shows

Two Victoria theatres have announced midnight shows for this Sunday. Their managers said the midnight movies would continue only if attendance was good.

Stephen Allen, manager of the Plaza, said the midnight shows, dropped because of falling attendance, are being brought back "because I've been pestered every week about them."

His first showing, a double bill, offers "The Four Skulls of Jonathan Drake" and "The Invisible Invaders."

Fred Izon, new manager of the Tillicum Theatre, said it will also present a double bill, featuring "I Was a Teenage Werewolf" and the "Invasion of the Saucer Men."

Inspectors Aground

Shortcoming of the Gorge as a small boat harbor was convincingly demonstrated to touring members of the Capital Region Planning Board yesterday when the craft in which they were making a tour of inspection struck bottom as it passed beneath the Gorge Bridge.

Brahm Wiesman, planning director, said members discussed the possibility of seeking federal aid for a proposal to build a dam and locks between the Gorge and the Inner Harbor to raise the level of water.

If this were done, said Mr. Wiesman, the Gorge would be a permanent small boat basin. The scheme would also end erosion of the Gorge shoreline from rising and falling tides and would keep out pollution from the harbor. He said the trip was designed to keep Gorge and Portage Inlet development possibilities uppermost in the minds of the capital planners.

Sid Thomas Trophy Presented

Candidate for Canada's Pan American Games swimming team, backstroke ace Bob Wheaton of the YMCA was presented with the Sid Thomas Memorial Trophy as Victoria's outstanding amateur athlete last night

Nanaimo Shades Shamrocks; Referees Blasted by Clubs

By JIM TAYLOR

Ashbee Was There

Make no mistake about it, the name of Nanaimo Labatts' coach is still Don Ashbee.

Ashbee may be under indefinite suspension by the Inter-City Lacrosse League, but he was very much in evidence at last night's game at Memorial Arena. As a matter of fact, he stopped the show.

When referees Wally Henderson and Sid Greenwood got ready to start the game, Ashbee was sitting directly behind the Nanaimo bench where, if he was so inclined, he could instruct pro-tem coach Arnie Dugan.

This didn't sit well with the officials, but it took 10 minutes of haranguing before they could get Ashbee to move. He moved all right—two rows up and six seats over, still behind the Nanaimo bench.

Ashbee didn't do any instructing. He just sat happily watching Labatts knock Victoria Shamrocks out last place. During intermission he signed autographs.

Nanaimo Labatts, with coach Don Ashbee sitting contentedly in the wings, finished with a burst at Memorial Arena last night to edge Victoria Shamrocks, 8-7, and climb past the Irish into third place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

It was a game that Nanaimo deserved to win. It was also a game that did much to back up growing discontent with league officiating.

Referees, of course, are a score point around the league these days, what with Ashbee getting suspended and Nanaimo manager Rev. John Snowden giving them a tongue-lashing in print and on the air. After last night's game, officials of both clubs capsuled their complaints into one word—inconsistent.

Wally Henderson and Sid Greenwood called lots of penalties—20 minutes to Victoria and 22 to Nanaimo, and worked hard to keep a bruising battle in hand. The trouble lay in the cheap ones they called and the major ones they didn't.

CASE IN POINT
Case in point came in the third quarter. Shamrocks' Bert Bertola put a hip into a Nanaimo player, knocking him off his stride. Two minutes. In the same period, Bob McKee of Victoria was cross-checked, boarded and sat on one play, coming out of it groggily fondling a bloody nose. No call. A Nanaimo official said later he was "stunned" that the play went uncalled.

Be that as it may, Labatts were full value for the win, which put them one point ahead of Shamrocks and just one back of the second-place Vancouver Carlings.

Labatts were without Bill Bamford, Ashbee, Jack Howse, Gogi Stewart and Dave Patterson, and lost Don Sherry with a shoulder injury at the start of the second quarter. But they took an early lead, lost it, and came back with three fast goals late in the fourth quarter to win.

A word about Fulla. The fabulous fat man was just that for Labatts, and he deserved the rebounding kiss he got from McKee as the final buzzer sounded. Shamrocks' shooting might have been a shade off, but Fulla beat Ron Jay in close four times, and stopped ticketed shots on several break-aways. Johnston was just as good for three quarters, but Labatts were beating him on the long ones at the end.

Bertola was the leading scorer for Shamrocks, although for some reason he did not get on the floor in the dying minutes of the game. Dugan, theoretically replacing Ashbee as coach, had two goals and two assists.

Pat Egan Fired by Cougars; Hal Laycoe Offered Position

As expected, Hal Laycoe, former coach-manager of the now-defunct New Westminster Royals, has been offered a contract to perform in this same capacity next season with Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League.

Laycoe's signing is expected to be a mere formality and Aug. 1 has been set as the date that the 11-year veteran of the National Hockey League will begin his duties with the Cougars.

However, Laycoe and his possible successors will be working on nothing more than one-year contracts as a result of a decision by Cougar executive members to disburse with long-term contracts in the future.

REPLACES EGAN

Laycoe replaces Pat Egan as manager-coach of the Cougars. Egan, who came to Victoria as a coach in the 1958-59 season and who received the managerial position several weeks later, was notified of his dismissal by registered letter yesterday.

Cougar vice-president Wilf Ritchie said that Egan's original contract does not terminate until December. But, Ritchie and his fellow executive members feel that "a satisfactory settlement" will be reached with Egan.

NEITHER AVAILABLE

Egan was not available for comment from his Boston, Mass., home. Neither was Laycoe who resides in Port Moody, just outside New Westminster limits, and is presently on a fishing trip in Northern Saskatchewan, according to Ritchie. In announcing his club's offer to Laycoe, Ritchie added that the one-year clause stems mainly from a list of six former coaches with whom the management has had repeated difficulties with two-year and longer contracts.

HAD TROUBLES

"We've given up on anything more than a one-year contract, feeling we've had our share of troubles with long-term ones," said Ritchie. "We've offered Laycoe a one-year contract. Everybody knows he can do the job and we're certainly hoping he'll remain here for longer than this period."

Laycoe, 37, spent three seasons as coach-manager at New Westminster. His first season, 1956-57, was his best as he piloted the Royals to second place in the Coast Division.

UPSET SEATTLE

That same season the New Westminster club upset Seattle to win Coast Division playoff honors before losing out to Brandon in the WHL final. Laycoe repeated his second place finish in 1957-58.

However, last season New Westminster finished last in Coast Division standings after securing very little help from the parent Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL.

When Royals' franchise was recently sold to Portland interested Laycoe almost simultaneously announced a new working agreement with Boston Bruins—formerly Victoria's NHL affiliate.

SEEMED LIKELY

Last month owners of the Portland team lent 10 former Royal players to Victoria. This was what made Laycoe's move here seem likely.

Portland, who will enter the WHL in the 1960-61 season, have also consented to lend Victoria any players that Boston would have sent out had they played in New Westminster one more season.

Laycoe spent six seasons with Boston and it is a known fact that the Bruin brass, particularly general manager Lynn Patrick, regard him highly.

FOR SEASONING

Naturally, Victoria executives feel that with Laycoe here, Boston will send many of its better farmhands to the Cougars for seasoning.

Laycoe began his professional career in the 1945-46 season with New York Rangers. After playing 17 games with New York Rangers the following season, he was traded to Montreal Canadiens.

Laycoe remained with Montreal until 1950-51, when he was dealt to Boston in a straight trade for Ross Lowe. It was with Boston that he gained recognition as one of the NHL's all-time defence greats. Oddly enough, he played his last season, 1955-56, as a forward.

Seven coaches have preceded Laycoe. They are, in order: Eddie Waros, Roger Leger, Eddie Dorohoy, Bill Reay, Ed Olson, Colin Kilburn and Egan, who finished third last season. With the 10 New Westminster players and another dozen owned by Victoria—seven of whom were regulars last season—Laycoe should have little trouble in moulding the Cougars into a contender next season.

The seven Cougar players who will be returning are colorful goalie Marcel Pelletier, Don McLeod, Carl Kaiser, Jim Hay, George Ford, Doug Anderson and Doug Macaulay.

Rangers, Red Wings May Play Games Here

Barring unforeseen difficulties with Memorial Arena management, Victoria hockey fans may get a first hand look at New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings of the NHL.

A pre-season tour by these clubs has already scheduled games at Spokane and Vancouver. Rangers play at Vancouver, Sept. 25 while the Wings play at Spokane four days later.

Proposed games here would see Victoria meeting New York Saturday, Sept. 26, and Detroit the following Wednesday.

"We haven't had an answer from the arena management as yet, but if we can get a go-ahead from them, it would give many of our fans their first chance to see some of the NHL's top players in the flesh," said Victoria Cougar manager Wilf Ritchie.

Dodgers Return to Second; Killebrew Smashes No. 31

Los Angeles took over second place in the National League race, one game behind San Francisco, by shutting out Pittsburgh Wednesday after Milwaukee had lost to Chicago.

The Dodgers' 3-0 triumph behind Don Drysdale left them two percentage points ahead of the Braves, who again fell before the Cubs' Glen Hobbie, 5-2. Milwaukee never has beaten Hobbie.

Cincinnati thumped St. Louis 11-5 in the other National League game. San Francisco and Philadelphia were washed out.

Harmon Killebrew continued his home run production with No. 31 during Washington's rain-shortened five-inning 3-0 victory over Detroit. Killebrew went nine games ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 pace when he hit his 60 home runs. Killebrew hit No. 31 in the Senators' 85th game. Ruth reached that level in the Yanks' 94th game.

The triumph boosted Washington into fifth place ahead of Detroit. Camillo Pascual allowed only one hit, a single by Gus Zernial.

Rain washed out the Cleveland-New York day double-header and single night games between Chicago and Boston and Kansas City and Baltimore.

Drysdale turned back the Pirates with only three hits and drove in two runs, ending the Dodgers' losing streak at two.

Parker and Bright Riddle Stampede

CALGARY (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos defeated Calgary Stampede 15-10 Wednesday night in an pre-season exhibition game between the two Western Interprovincial Football Union teams.

Some 7,000 fans in Mewata stadium saw Edmonton's veteran combination of Jackie Parker and Johnny Bright punch holes in the Calgary defence almost at random as each club experimented with more than 40 players.

It was first football game of the season and one of the earliest ever scheduled. The same two clubs meet again Tuesday in Edmonton.

Calgary led 3-2 at the quarter but Edmonton scored their only touchdown in the second to take a 9-4 lead at half time. Eskimos increased their margin to 12-4 at the end of the third quarter.

Rollie Miles scored Edmonton's touchdown. Parker added two field goals and a convert, and Jim Coffey and Vic Chapman each had singles.

Ronnie Morris, a first-year man from Tulsa University, scored Calgary's touchdown which went unconverted. Doug Brown added a field goal and a single.

Both clubs changed quarterbacks for the second quarter. Joe Kapp replaced Knobby Winkowski and Canadian Don Getty came in briefly for Parker.

Sue Butt Loses

CHICAGO—Susan Butt of Victoria, lone Canadian survivor in the United States clay court tennis tournament, was defeated 6-1, 6-2 by Gwyneth Thomas of Shakers Heights, in second-round women's singles play Wednesday.

Giants Make Series Plans

If those surprising San Francisco Giants can protect a slim National League lead and thus gain a berth in the 1959 world series, chances are they will play post-season home games in their new 42,500-seat Candlestick Park.

Club president Horace Stoneham feels confident that the new stadium, being built to replace the Giants' cramped 22,000-seat Seals Stadium, will be completed by world series time.

"There's no question, if we get in the series, we'll play there," said Stoneham. The management, paying relatively little heed to series talk, is trying to speed up the completion of Candlestick Park in time for the Giants' 18-game home stretch series that begins Sept. 2 at San Francisco. The world series opens Sept. 30 at the home of the American League champions.

HOLLY NIMS, eighth-ranked middleweight boxing contender, won a unanimous decision from George Benton in a 10-round bout at Miami Beach, Fla. Coach Rudy Pilons of the NHL Chicago Black Hawks has become the sole owner of the St. Catharines Teepees of the OHA Junior League. Robert White, first president of the Professional Golfers Association of America, died Wednesday.

SEEDED PLAYERS had little difficulty in advancing to

Junior Tourney Void of Upsets

With the exception of John Harper who was forced to default to Don McCormick, seeded players have advanced as expected in the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club's junior tournament.

Vic. West Ladies Win In Bowling
Mrs. B. Jenkins and Mrs. E. Davidson of Victoria West won the Stanley Cup lawn bowling competition Wednesday by defeating Mrs. L. Stewart and Mrs. K. Dickie of Burnside.

Match was played at Victoria West with "B" section play preceding the final. Mrs. A. McConnell and Mrs. A. Knops of Lake Hill were "B" winners.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Ethel Keating of Victoria West won the Wenger Cup and Vancouver Island ladies' singles championship by defeating Mrs. Agnes Donald of Burnside.

Finals of the City singles championship will open today at Victoria West. Competing will be Mrs. Hillard of Oak Bay, Mrs. A. McConnell of Lake Hill, Mrs. K. Dickie of Burnside and Mrs. B. Jenkins of Victoria West.

King Fisherman

Trout, Bass Anglers Find Fishing Slower

Salmon fishermen may be in their glory these days with good fishing reported almost everywhere on Vancouver Island, but the anglers who prefer to try for bass and trout aren't having much luck.

Entries in the bass and trout divisions of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest have dropped off sharply after a fast start in May and June. This is especially true in the trout class, up until the first week of July, entries in the trout division had, on a comparative basis, been better than any other. About 600 trout had been weighed in in the first two months, compared to 341 for the entire contest in 1958. However since July 9, only 30 trout have been weighed in as anglers found fishing poor at best.

Only five bass have been weighed in in the past 10 days. Latest entries:

Sunday Derby Helps Kiddies

Fishermen take to Saanich Inlet this Sunday so that crippled children can play on the beach next year.

That about sums up the purpose of Sunday's Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association derby, an affair that annually provides money to help make life more enjoyable for the youngsters at Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Since the association first made the solarium its project 13 years ago, it has raised funds to maintain the buildings. This year they plan to work on the grounds—through construction of a ramp that will enable wheelchair patients as well as those who can walk, to get down to the sandy beach on warm summer afternoons. Anybody can join in this worthwhile derby, the biggest on Vancouver Island. Derby tickets can be purchased from Inlet boathouses, association members or city sporting goods stores, and each ticket means a chance at winning a new 1959 sedan.

Naturally, the VSIAA wants to see the Inlet thick with boats Sunday. A ramp such as the one planned takes a great deal of money, and every fisherman who purchases a ticket will make the task that much easier. If you don't fish, buy a ticket anyway and try for the car.

Twenty-Pound Brown Trout Caught Alive

TORONTO (CP)—A brown trout that is almost three pounds over the Canadian angling record may be displayed alive at the Canadian National Exhibition here this year.

The 20-pound, one-ounce fish was netted by fisheries workers in an overflow stream near Peterborough, last week.

It is being kept alive in a pond at a fish hatchery along with several other brown trout, ranging from eight to 13 pounds, which were taken from the same stream.

Where Big Ones Don't Get Away

AUCKLAND (CP)—The fighting fish in first-class condition, and the scope and variety of the fishing is unsurpassed.

Rainbow trout in this area grow to a size they rarely attain in their native North America. Taupo often yields fish well over 10 pounds in weight.

But for really big trout some of the other lakes in the same area are even more remarkable.

Lake Tarawera, a few miles away, offers only limited and difficult spawning but has abundant supplies of feed. As a result, the fish population is small and provided with boundless sustenance.

Taupo trout are splendid from an egg to the fabulous size of 14 pounds in three years. Some 14-pound trout captured in the lake are only two years old.

Few seasons pass without monsters of 20 pounds being landed in this and one or two similar lakes in the district. A major attraction to most overseas anglers is that there is practically no private or reserved fishing. Almost all the best streams and lakeside areas are freely open to anyone who buys a licence, at a price ranging from the equivalent of about 30 cents for a day's fishing to about $8 for a full season of nine months.

RCMP Get Loaded Crops Help from Outside

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the RCMP are issued with weighted 22½-inch riding crops for use on duty, the Commons was informed Wednesday.

Tabling of the return for Arnold Peters (CCF, Timiskaming) recalled criticism of the use of these 12-ounce crops by RCMP personnel during the violence-ridden wood-workers' strike in Newfoundland earlier this year.

The crop consists of a steel rod tapering from one-eighth of an inch at the handle to three-eighths of an inch at the outer end, wrapped with insulating tape and covered with layers of rubber and leather.

The return also said that in special circumstances and when specifically ordered, RCMP officers also are authorized to carry:

1. Ten-ounce billets consisting of a steel spring with a lead weight at the end and encased in leather; 2. Solid rubber billets weighing six ounces; 3. Fourteen-inch nightsticks of solid hardwood, seven ounces; 4. Fabric-encased hardwood truncheons 35½ inches long, one pound three ounces, for use when on horseback.

May Have Freed Murder Suspect

EDMONTON (CP)—The possibility that mass-murder suspect Robert Raymond Cook received outside help in his escape from the provincial mental hospital at Ponoka is being investigated, a police source here said Wednesday.

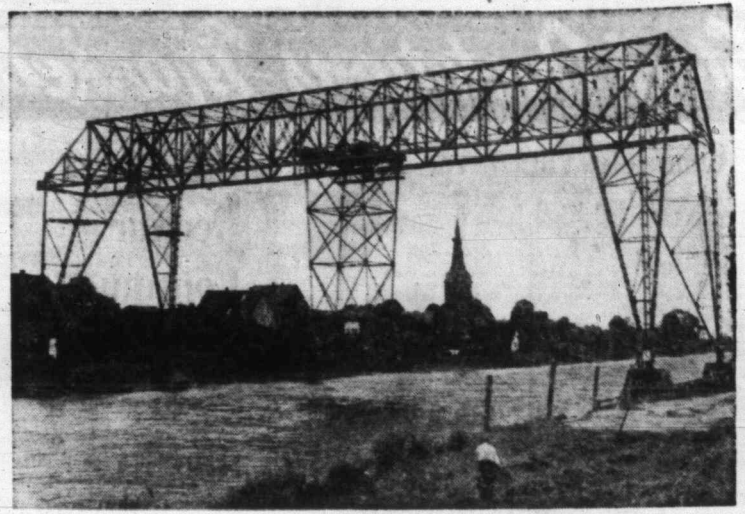

Health Minister Dr. J. D. Ross also said an investigation will be held concerning Cook's confinement at the hospital and procedure there.

Reports from the hospital said Cook, 22, charged with murder of his father at Stettler, Alta., in late June, smashed a window and ripped out a heavy screen to escape last Friday night.

He was captured without resistance Tuesday afternoon near Bashaw, Alta.

Dr. Ross said Cook was classified as a maximum security case but there was no 24-hour guard on him.

W. Ray Johnston, mayor of Ponoka, said in an interview: "It seems to me the RCMP could well have spent a few hours of one man's time rather than the time of hundreds of men that became necessary after Cook escaped," he said.

It's Not a Bridge—It's a Ferry

It looks like some sort of bridge, but this apparatus is an unusual "lift-ferry" connecting the towns of Basbeck and Osten in northern Germany. Spanning the Oste River, the ferry carries its loads on a suspended platform (centre) driven by motors. The only similar ferry in Europe is located in southern France.

Doctor Performed Major Surgery Rare Swan's Life Saved

EDMONTON (CP)—The Calgary zoo has acquired a rare trumpeter swan because of the efforts of a Peace River doctor who performed major surgery on the bird to save its life.

The story was told Wednesday by a spokesman for the game branch of the Alberta department of lands and forests, which handled the transfer of the big swan to the zoo in Calgary.

When the bird was brought to the office of Dr. J. H. Wulff at Peace River this spring, it had a badly broken wing and was so weak it wouldn't have lived long.

Dr. Wulff amputated the broken wing and applied medication until the swan was almost as good as new.

Dr. Wulff said a district resident found the wounded bird and brought it to him.

"My experience in treating animals so far had been restricted to dogs and cats when no vet was available," the doctor added. "In this case I did not have much choice or consultation, so I just did the operation in the very same manner I would have done it on a human being and fortunately it worked."

"The recovery of the bird was quite remarkable. Within three days he walked around as if nothing had ever happened."

For the Calgary zoo, the wounded trumpeter filled a long-standing order. Trumpeters are protected by law, and any zoo or collector wanting one has to wait until a wounded or crippled one turns up.

U.S. Judge Forbids Practice

Company Bans Jews
To Suit Arab 'Masters'

NEW YORK (AP) — A court Wednesday barred the Arabian-American Oil Company from applying religious tests in hiring employees, and said that if the company can't comply it should "go elsewhere to serve your Arab masters."

State Supreme Court Justice Henry Epstein, upsetting a state administrative ruling that allowed the oil firm to quiz prospective employees about their religion, declared: "Any such holdings would undermine the very foundations of our American concept of liberty and the constitutional safeguards of that liberty."

JUSTICE FIRST

He said the upholding of U.S. justice outweighed any consideration of the company's relations with governments in the religious-tense Near East.

The Arab lands are predominantly Moslem, with keen antagonisms toward Israel.

The company had no immediate comment.

The judge said a state agency's decision to exempt the company from a law barring questions about a job applicant's religion made the agency a "vassal of a foreign potentate."

FEW JEWS HIRED

"Out of some 887 employees on Aramco's New York payroll, few, if any, Jews are employed," the judge said, adding:

"If, as perhaps correctly claimed by Aramco, this must result from the necessity of possible employment in Saudi Arabia, the answer of New York State is simply—go elsewhere to serve your Arab masters—but not in New York State."

Last Nov. 10, Commissioner Elmer A. Carter of the state anti-discrimination commission exempted the company from the law prohibiting religious tests for prospective employees.

COLOR NO BARRIER

The court decision was in answer to a request by the American Jewish Congress for a review of the exemption.

Noting that the commission already has held that color of skin is not a bona fide "occupational qualification" for exemption to the law, Epstein said:

"Then surely in 1959, religion cannot be so regarded, Saudi Arabia and Aramco to the contrary notwithstanding."

JEWS NOT WANTED

Aramco, with headquarters in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, is the producing and refining arm there for four big American oil companies. It currently is pumping about 1,000,000 barrels of oil a day into the world's supply.

The company has about 17,000 employees in Saudi Arabia, 12,000 of whom are Saudi Arabians, a spokesman said.

Saudi Arabia has opposed stationing American Jewish personnel in that country.

Earl Long

Riding
Texas Trail

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Governor Earl Long of Louisiana, outfitted with eight new pairs of cowboy boots and a pair of silver spurs, hit the trail to west Texas yesterday in a $10,000 air-conditioned Cadillac.

Before he left, Dr. M. O. Miller of New Orleans pronounced him "much improved" in pulse, blood pressure, temperature, appearance and appetite.

Long, 63, is suffering from a nervous breakdown, heart trouble and the after effects of a small stroke, or series of strokes. He is in Texas "resting."

He spoke to the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Fort Worth about his experiences in "three crazy houses."

"What's the word for doctors who treat crazy people?" Long asked.

"Psychiatrist," a reported replied.

"Yes, 'psychiatrist,'" Long said. "That 'psychiatrist' word covers everything like an old maid's dress."

"I've been in three crazy houses in the last four weeks where they kept sticking needles in me and, if I'm crazy, I have always been crazy," he said.

"I like Texas. I used to sell baking powder here."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some of the politicians who criticized the West Side Tennis Club when its president barred Negro Dr. Ralph Bunche from membership belong themselves to organizations that explicitly exclude Negroes, the New York World-Telegram and Sun said yesterday.

At least seven belong to restricted fraternal orders. Some also belong to country clubs, which, "for one reason or another, have not a single colored member," the newspaper said.

The seven include Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.).

Meanwhile, New York City's Commission on Intergroup Relations Wednesday said it would proceed as scheduled with a hearing next week on the case "to avoid recurrence of such incidents."

Avoid Royal Routes

Car drivers in Victoria are reminded by city police of driving and parking restrictions in force during the royal visit today and Friday.

Deputy Chief Harry Mercer has asked for co-operation from all concerned, to permit smoothest possible flow of traffic at all times.

All traffic must keep off routes being used by the royal party. Motorcycle officers will precede the official cars, and all cross streets will be closed off until the party has passed.

CLOSED TO TRAFFIC

This afternoon, during ceremonies at the Legislative Buildings, streets in that area will be closed to traffic at 4.30 p.m. These include Humboldt, Douglas, Superior and Oswego streets and those contained in that area.

There will be no parking from 3 p.m. today on Oswego from Superior to Belleville; on Belleville from Douglas to Oswego; on Menzies from Belleville to Kingston, and on Government from Belleville to Humboldt.

Friday at 9.30 a.m. the Beacon Hill Park area will be closed off, including Government and Dallas, Simcoe and Douglas, and roads in the park leading to Dallas and Douglas.

Parking will be banned after 7 a.m. on Dallas from Cook to Douglas; on Douglas from Simcoe to Dallas; on Battery from Douglas to Paddon; on Paddon from Battery to Dallas and on Olympia from Battery to Dallas.

At noon Friday, during the official luncheon at the Empress, streets in the hotel area will be closed from about 1 p.m. to 2.30 p.m.

There will be no parking after 11 a.m. on the east side of Government between Belleville and Humboldt—on the Causeway.

ALL TRAFFIC CLOSED

In the afternoon Friday all traffic will be closed in the area bounded by Cook, Dallas, May and Moss, during the children's rally at Clover Point. Closure will be effective at 12.30 p.m.

Fireworks Parking Arranged

Special parking arrangements have been made for citizens wanting to see the naval fireworks display and ship illumination Friday at 10 p.m.

Ships of the Royal Canadian Navy will be lined up off Beacon Hill Park and Dallas Road, in line parallel to shore.

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will watch from the balcony of Government House.

Five special parking areas will be set up in Beacon Hill Park for the general public.

They are: Soccer field on Douglas, regular parking lot near the deer pen, two areas between the deer pen and the cricket pitch, and just inside the park off Rupert.

They may be reached from Douglas and the park entrance facing Simcoe, from the corner of Rupert and Heywood and from the corner of Heywood and Park Boulevard. All other park entrances will be barricaded.

Daddy's Out There Somewhere

Two-year-old Lorri Lochrie looks for daddy while rehearsal proceeds, with dummy colors representing old Queen's and regimental colors which will be trooped for last time Friday. Daddy is Sgt. J. M. Lochrie, 391 Anson, and he's on parade in one of the six smart guards.

New Old Folks' Home To Have Luxuries

March-Past Preceded By Parade

Servicemen of the navy, army and air force will parade through Victoria streets this afternoon in advance of the march-past before Queen Elizabeth at the legislative buildings.

Starting at 3.30 p.m., the tri-service parade will leave Royal Athletic Park and go by Cook, Pandora, Douglas, Belleville, Government, Michigan, Menzies and Superior to Oswego Street.

They will form up on Oswego and Belleville for the march-past, slated for 6 p.m.

To Be Presented

Among Royal Canadian Army Cadets from the Vernon camp who will be presented to the Queen during Friday's royal garden party at Government House is Robert George Dean, 16, of 102 West Maddock Street.

Beauty Parlor, Library

Architect's plans for a 140-bed old people's home at the site of the old Matson residence known as Mount Adelaide, were passed for submission to Salvation Army headquarters yesterday by the local advisory board.

The Matson Sunset Lodge is estimated to cost $772,000. It will be built in the form of a cross with magnificent views overlooking Victoria Harbor.

COMFORT, PRIVACY

George Gray, building committee chairman, said the building would represent the maximum in comfort, privacy and proximity to the city for the occupants, while at the same time giving the utmost ease of operation.

Many novel features are incorporated in the plan. There is a beauty parlor, a shop, two solariums, a glassed-in veranda, TV and radio rooms, a library and a sewing guild room.

SICK BAY, TOO

There will also be a four-bed sick bay with nursing and doctors' rooms adjacent.

The dining room will overlook the outer harbor and will be adjacent to the chapel and lounge.

The bedroom accommodation consists of 10 married suites with bedroom and sitting room, and 120 single rooms on two floors.

NO STAIRCASE

There will be no staircase but a wide, circular ramp with an easy gradient. The ramp will have glass slides looking partly over the harbor and partly down to the chapel and dining room.

The Salvation Army has approved in principle the building of the new Sunset Lodge, and the plans are being sent to headquarters for their final approval.

Numerous grants will be available for the construction of the new lodge, but the remainder—about $280,000—is due to be raised in next year's annual Red Shield campaign.

Flawless Parade Has Thousands Applauding

Crowd estimated at more than 3,000 watches flawless rehearsal with keen interest and frequent applause. Bleachers and seats will be filled Friday morning by invited guests, but Beacon Hill slope east of soccer field will accommodate another 5,000 spectators, officials estimate.—(Colonist photos.)

Two Service Bands Play At Today's Park Concert

View Royal Muddle As Foggy as Ever

What happens next in View Royal's village incorporation muddle seems to be anyone's guess.

Normally, when 60 per cent of resident property owners of an area petition for incorporation of a village municipality, the provincial government, by order in council, authorizes a vote.

But in View Royal, 529 of the 814 eligible persons signed an incorporation petition, and then an anti-incorporation committee announced it had obtained 460 signatures on a counter-petition, leading to the conclusion that some property owners had changed their minds.

An official of the municipal affairs department indicated yesterday that no ready solution had been found to the problem thus posed, and that the question would require further study.

Yacht Makes Sooke On Voyage to U.K.

A 24-foot ketch, the Idler, which left Victoria, Monday, for England only to become the object of a wide search when she failed to get across Juan de Fuca Strait, was found safe in Sooke Inlet.

She is manned by Mr. and Mrs. Ian Critchley of Vancouver and their friend Jim Stewart.

While heading for Neah Bay on the Washington state side of Juan de Fuca Strait, the Idler developed trouble in her auxiliary motor, and turned back to Sooke. Yesterday she came back to Victoria for repairs.

Fears for the craft were expressed when she failed to reach Neah Bay, and the U.S. Coast Guard was alerted. A Coast Guard plane later reported the Idler at ease at Sooke.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: Eight couples have formed a club. We've known each other for about 10 years. Every two weeks we meet in our homes, enjoy a cocktail hour, have dinner, dance, play records or just talk.

For the past several months there's been a definite pairing off of couples (not mates). To be frank, there's been some social necking going on in the corridors, pantry, etc.

There's one rather attractive woman in the crowd who can't keep her hands off my husband. She makes a B-line for him whenever we walk through the door. We've had some terrible arguments over her and he always says the same thing. "We're just having innocent fun. She means nothing to me so stop being jealous."

Apparently her husband doesn't mind because he's busy with a dishwasher blonde. Is this the style these days—flirting in small groups? I'd like to call a halt but I don't want to look like a prude. What shall I say to my husband the next time this problem comes up?—OLD FASHIONED GIRL.

Cheap and Immoral

Dear O.F.G.: You refer to the shenanigans as "social necking." This is a neat phrase, but what does it mean? Is there any other kind of necking?

In my opinion you ought to pull out of this mixed-up little group. "Pairing off" is creep and it's immoral; it's a threat to every one of your marriages.

Your husband's defence is a meaningless collection of words. Tell him exactly where you stand and find some new friends—whose morals match yours.

Dear Ann Landers: My 15-year-old sister is making life a hell for me. My husband just got out of the service and he's having trouble finding work. We are staying with my folks until we can afford a place of our own. I work in a beauty salon and earn $65 a week. I give my folks $25 every Saturday.

This kid sister has a tongue like the devil himself. She's mad because we have her bedroom and she has to sleep on the couch for a while. Last night she called my husband a lazy bum and said he could find a job if he really wanted one.

Both my mother and dad just stood there and didn't say one word to her. My husband lost his temper and slapped her face. Then my dad got sore at HIM and everyone wound up screaming at everyone else. Don't you think the folks should have stood up for US?—PINK SHOE LACES.

Rent a Broom Closet

Dear Pink: When your folks just stood there and didn't say anything it was tacit approval of your sister's remarks. She should NOT have said it and your husband ought not to have slapped her.

Now—MOVE. Even if it means renting a broom closet in a bus station!

Dear Ann: I'm a girl 15 who needs your help. My two bratty brothers are the world's worst pests. They are 14 and 12 years of age. They seem to take great pleasure in busting into my room whenever they feel like it. I've hung a couple of KEEP OUT signs on the door but they pay no attention.

Last night they both came storming in when I was getting ready for bed and I was furious. I complained to my mother for the millionth time and she said I'm making mountains out of molehills and there would be no locked doors in our house. What is your advice?—GIRL IN A FISH BOWL.

Dear Girl: Your mother

Citizenship For Women Ratified

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons unanimously and swiftly ratified Tuesday the Canadian government's signature to an international agreement giving married women a citizenship status independent of their husbands.

As Citizenship Minister Fairclough explained it, the agreement upholds the principle—recognized in Canada for at least 12 years—that a woman's citizenship status is unaffected by that of her husband.

Children Here to Celebrate

Wed in 1899!

An event of interest to the friends of the Rev. G. H. and Mrs. Peacock was the celebration of their 60th wedding anniversary on July 13. Mr. and Mrs. Peacock were married in Toronto in 1899. Mrs. R. J. Lydiatt, who was Mrs. Peacock's bridesmaid, attended the festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Peacock's five children travelled to Victoria for this occasion: Mrs. F. C. Shaw, of Evanston, Ill., Mr. G. M. Peacock, Q.C., of Edmonton, Mr. N. R. Peacock of Calgary, Mrs. C. F. Prevey and Mrs. F. E. H. James of Victoria. Other guests included Mrs. Peacock's sisters, Mrs. J. A. Hill of Montreal, Mrs. M. T. Biette of Victoria, and Mr. Peacock's sister, Mrs. H. D. and Mrs. T. Hamilton are seen outside an old colonial home, 141 Gorge Road, where the party will be held. (Colonist photo.)

Party Will Recapture Spirit of Past Age

St. Andrews and Caledonian Society plan to hold a real old-fashioned garden party, July 18. This is their centenary and they will try to recapture the spirit of the times when gardens were gardens and parties really parties.

The conveners will be dressed in period costume and fashions of the 1900s will be shown.

Necklines Demure And Daring

NEW YORK (UPI)—Necklines take two directions in evening fashions for fall. Demure and daring. You'll see the demure look especially in the shirtwaist type of dresses which depend on extravagance of the fabrics. Some of the cocktail and short and long formal dresses with protection against bare back to show a wide U-shape or V-shaped expanse of skin.

One of the oldest societies in Victoria it was constituted in 1859 as the St. Andrews' Society with Governor James Douglas as honorary president, and Chief Justice Cameron as vice-president.

Membership grew rapidly to over 100. In 1870 it merged with the Caledonian Benevolent Association and the names were amalgamated. The present constitution is based on the Cleveland constitution which was first adopted by the society in 1860.

The garden party will be held in the grounds of the Dingle, 141 Gorge Road, an old Colonial home nearly 100 years old, now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Nordal.

A Scottish flavor will be provided by a pipe band, and Highland dancers. Gerry Inglis accordion band and a troupe of trained dogs will also be there to entertain.

Antique Heirloom Pendant Only Jewel Worn by Bride

An antique turquoise pendant, heirloom of the bride's mother, was the only jewelry worn by Ethel Margaret Grubb for her marriage to Mr. Austin George McTaggart. The blue stones enhanced the white gown of floral taffeta brocade which was styled on princess lines with bodice finished with long sleeves.

RED ROSES

She carried a bouquet of red roses and was given in marriage by her father at Quadra Bible chapel. H. C. Sheppard of Duncan assisted by the Rev. W. E. Montgomery of Qualicum performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. R. N. Grubb, Victoria and the late Mrs. Grubb, and Mrs. Alice McTaggart, Duncan and the late Mr. McTaggart.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Helen Olden, wore an emerald green floral brocade gown in ballerina length. Junior bridesmaid, Miss Roberta Lowe, Duncan, was in yellow floral brocade. Both carried bouquets of orange Talisman roses and gladioli. Best man was James Robertson, North Vancouver, and ushers were Grant Garnet, and James Wright, of Duncan, and Roy McCallum, Nanaimo.

VILLA MARINA

Reception was held at Villa Marina, Cordova Bay, where sweet peas, maiden hair fern and white poppies decorated the bride's table. Dr. D. R. Horton proposed the toast; an organ and piano duet was given by Dr. and Mrs. W. J.

Cochrane, Vancouver, and a vocal solo by Dr. Kirkbride.

Aristocrats At Odds Over Skirts

LONDON (CPI) — A couple of aristocratic Englishwomen, equally versed in fashion and literature, are at odds over skirts.

Nancy Mitford, baronet's daughter, best-selling author and expert on French culture, says the English have never learned to make a skirt.

Lady Pamela Berry, elegant wife of a Fleet Street editor, replies that this just isn't true. She volunteers to find Miss Mitford a good English skirt if she will attend London's "fashion week" starting July 21.

The dispute about dress started when Miss Mitford, in a rare interview published by The Daily Express, issued an indictment of English fashion from her lovely home on the Rue Monsieur in Paris.

"If I had to cut down on clothes," she said in the racy Mitford style, "I would get one suit every year from a good Paris dressmaker."

"It is a myth that English suits and jackets are superior to French ones; they have never learned to make a skirt. Last time I was in London I saw a suit the jacket of which delighted me, but the skirt was quite impossible."

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

REDUCING TIPS FOR TEENS. A lovely mother writes: My teen daughter needs to reduce and is trying desperately to do so. Would it be advisable for her to drink skim milk? I do not want her to lose her health, along with her weight.

The answer: Many physicians prescribe skim milk for overweight teens. Except for fat and vitamin A, skim milk contains the same nutrients as whole milk. The loss of fat in skim milk is, of course, entirely desirable. The loss of vitamin A can and should be replaced by eating one raw carrot daily, or any other low-calorie food with a high vitamin A content.

During teen years, four glasses of skim milk is the daily requirement. An 8-ounce glass counts 87 calories, whereas the same quantity of whole milk totals 166 calories. Thus within a week, a drinker of skim milk cuts over 2,000 calories from her intake—and all so painlessly.

But no teen should drink skim milk unless she first checks with her own physician. This is an instance where every girl really is a law unto herself.

'O Canada' Silencing Protocol Chap's Whim

Personal likes and dislikes of "these fellows who dish out protocol" was blamed last night by a former national president of the Native Sons of Canada for silencing the strains of "O Canada" in the presence of the Queen.

R. D. MacLachlan, president of the local branch of the Native Sons, was referring to an earlier edict by a spokesman for the provincial government's royal tour committee.

The spokesman said "O Canada" isn't suitable as a salute to the Queen but would be all right for a tribute to Defence Minister George Pearkes.

"O Canada" isn't a salute to the Queen, it isn't even a national anthem," said the spokesman.

But Mr. MacLachlan disagrees, pointing out that during the Canadian visit of King George VI the monarch snapped to attention and held a salute while "O Canada" was being played.

He said that recognition of any piece of music as a national anthem does not rest on the official stamp of the government but "on the people's choice."

"O Canada," he said, "is the overwhelming choice of Canadians."

Queen Elizabeth is "here in her capacity as Queen of Canada and anytime we sing 'O Canada' it is a tribute to her," he stated.

But he agrees that "God Save the Queen" is the correct piece to play if "a blessing of the Queen is in order."

"O Canada," he said, "is a tribute but is equal in every way with 'God Save the Queen.'"

A second Canadian song, "The Maple Leaf Forever," said Mr. MacLachlan, "is simply a jingle."

He said it can never be seriously considered as an anthem because it "is a song of the defeat of the French and they would never accept it."

Queen and Philip Sing 'O Canada'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Both the Queen and Prince Philip joined in the singing of "O Canada" last night at the end of a performance of the "Chocolate Soldier" in Stanley Park. Royal couple's action was significant in view of order issued by spokesman for B.C. government's royal tour committee that "O Canada" must not be played in Queen's presence because "it isn't a suitable salute to the Queen."

Philip Full of Chuckles

VANCOUVER (CP)—A patient at Shaughnessy Military Hospital drew a series of laughs and chuckles from Prince Philip Wednesday. So did Mayor Tom Alsbury earlier.

Daniel McDonald, a 66-year-old veteran recalled in a lively chat with Prince Philip that he attended the Smith riding school at Maidenhead, England, where the then Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret frequently went riding. The Duke touched the Queen's arm and said with a smile: "Look, this fellow used to be at Smith's in Maidenhead."

"Not really?" said the Queen, obviously interested.

Mayor Tom Alsbury, a school principal until he became mayor six months ago, was asked by Prince Philip if he planned to return to teaching.

"We have elections here," said the mayor. "I may have to."

The prince laughed heartily. The Queen, who faced her heaviest schedule of the royal tour Wednesday, told Mayor Tom Alsbury she sympathizes with the leading political figures who carry a heavy burden in public life.

The mayor, who chatted with the Queen and Prince Philip during an informal hour-long civic luncheon, said she particularly mentioned President Eisenhower and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Spike Tries in Vain To Top Rock 'n' Roll

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Spike Jones, compared by some music lovers to Atila the Hun, says rock and roll is worse than anything he's ever recorded.

"It's pretty rough to make a record much funnier or worse than rock and roll singers do," he moaned.

"The raspberry sound effect we had in 'The Führer's Face,' was better than those rock and roll singers who get gold records today for selling a million discs."

Sitting in his Moulin Rouge dressing room — equipped by the way with an oxygen tank and mask — Spike is using to recuperate from a pneumonia attack — Jones said he feels rock and roll has done its best to ruin music.

MUCH WORSE

"Recently I went to a composer's house to get permission to do a satire on 'I Only Have Eyes for You,'" he said. "After receiving permission I went out to my car to go home."

"My car radio was on and I heard a rock and roll version of that beautiful standard much more harmful to the tune than anything I had in mind."

"I've never tried to ruin a tune," the back-alley arranger insisted.

Spike's band contains the normal run of instruments plus gold-plated cowbells, pistols, anvils, automobile horns, washboards and small cannons normally used for starting yacht races.

He has a pretty girl harpist who does nothing but sit on a rocking chair knitting a scarf.

90 FEET LONG

He's gone through seven harpists and the girl is working on the second scarf — the first is 90 feet long.

"We just use the harp on picnics to slice hard-boiled eggs," Spike explained. "It sure is hard to find a girl harpist who knows how to play the instrument and will agree not to."

Spike also had some remarks about the awarding of gold records to rock and roll singers.

"Some of those rock and roll singers get one hit record and can't follow it up," he complained. "Then they have to go back to stealing hub caps."

Spike has been awarded a shellac record, honoring one of his renditions that sold only 500 copies — and six gold discs.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Plans have been announced for an NBC-TV special starring Tony Curtis as Russ Colombo, famed crooner of the 30s. Gary Crosby may play his famous father and several notable singers and band leaders of the era may also appear.

Singer Johnny Desmond, who claims the rights to certain songs associated with Colombo, has threatened to sue if his rights are violated.

Noel Coward Ballet Forlorn or Superb?

NOEL COWARD

LONDON (UPI)—Most British critics turned thumbs down yesterday on Noel Coward's first attempt to write a ballet — a modern one called "London Morning."

But the audience loved it — giving it eight curtain calls.

Criticism ran the gamut from the Daily Mail's statement that the show was "indescribably crude and vulgar" to the Daily Sketch's comment it was "quite superb and wonderful fun."

Most critics agreed the opening performance Tuesday night at Festival Hall was a spectacle or musical revue but not a ballet.

"London Morning" is much more accurately to be connected with the spectacular dance-sketches which are to be seen in variety shows or on television," the Times critic said.

"The atmosphere is frankly artificial and it is out of date too — so is the music."

The ballet depicts the comings and goings of a cross-section of characters in front of Buckingham Palace. American tourists, palace guards, schoolgirls and beatniks parade in front of the palace gates in a variety of incidents.

The Daily Express critic called the ballet a "boneless wonder, limp in ideas yet it glowed with theatrical flair. The music, like the whole theme, is faded, forlorn and hopelessly dated."

Police Rush In To Avert Riots

Harlem Edgy, Angry After Woman's Arrest

NEW YORK (AP)—Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy, fearful of a race riot, threw additional police details into all Negro sections of the city Wednesday. The move was the aftermath of a near-riot Monday in Harlem.

To critics who accused him of creating a police state in Harlem, Kennedy replied: "That is a ridiculous, outrageous statement. It is my duty to protect law-abiding citizens there."

NO CONTROL

Kennedy attributed tension in Harlem to factors over which police have no control — housing, schools, and economic and social factors.

He also charged that most of the criticism of Harlem police has come from politicians concerned with gaining votes.

WORSE THAN BOMB

"A race riot would cause more destruction of community relations than an atom bomb," he said, "and the lingering effect of such a riot would be worse for the community than the fallout of an A-bomb."

Harlem's last race riot was in 1943. Six Negroes were killed.

In Monday's Harlem incident, a policeman accidentally shot and slightly wounded himself and another policeman as an angry crowd surged on them after they arrested a woman of Italian and Puerto Rican descent.

CHAMPION TALKS

A report spread that police had beaten the woman, Mrs. Carmela Cavaglione. This brought a sullen crowd of 500 to a Harlem station house. They dispersed after middleweight boxing champion Sugar Ray Robinson talked to them.

Although Robinson told the crowd the woman had not been beaten, he said afterwards that it appeared to him she had.

But her lawyer, Emanuel Guerreiro, said: "Neither our client nor ourselves have at any time charged the police department with brutality."

Police had been called to a Harlem restaurant on complaint that the woman had been drinking and was causing a disturbance.

Latest Gosley Show Varied, Entertaining

By BERT BINNY

The sixth annual "Smile Show" was previewed last night by an invited audience at the Langham Court Theatre.

Jerry Gosley's "typical English seaside show" now embarks on a run of 21 nights, starting this evening at 8:15.

The cast is made up of the old guard, Jerry Gosley and Irene Henderson; the middle guard of Reg Stone and Len Evans; and a new guard of Carl and Lottie Hemeon and Maria Owen and Joan Perry.

The new guard performed excellently. Dancers Owen and Perry were admirably costumed, slick and polished.

DIDN'T NEED IT

Carl and Lottie Hemeon were, as usual, completely entertaining with their magic and sleight-of-hand. It seemed a pity to tack comedy on the tail end of an act that obviously didn't need it.

The songs of Irene Henderson, put over with very charming personality, were very well received and Reg Stone's organ music left nothing to be desired.

This week's guest artist was accordionist Al Denoni, actually an ex-Smile Show troupier of long standing.

AT HIS BEST

Comedian Len Evans was at his best in "The Golf Lesson"; on some other occasions he got the wrong song to sing. Jerry Gosley made the greatest success of "The Bloody Tower."

The weakness in this show lies in the almost apologetic enacting. There is absolutely no need for this approach.

Decor and lighting were well done by Tony Maynard and Bob de Castro.

But Don't Expect Jungle Age Yet

Canada Warming Up

Canada appears to be getting warmer, but don't expect a jungle age just yet.

So, yesterday, said P. D. McTaggart-Cowan — and he should know. He is associate director of meteorological services, department of transport, Ottawa; in other words, Canada's No. 2 weatherman.

Mr. McTaggart-Cowan, "under tow" by Victoria's own weatherman, William Mackie, was making an inspection of Victoria and Saanich installations of the department. And enjoying Victoria weather.

TREND VERY SLOW

He was asked if weather patterns were changing, and that brought the word that Canada was warming up.

"Of course, the trend is very slow. You can't tell anything at all without at least 30 years of weather records to work with," he said. "On that basis, however, the average for the country is a bit warmer."

ICE AGE TO JUNGLE

"Of course, we've always known that the weather moves in long waves, ranging over countless years from ice-age to jungle. Certainly, you and I won't live to see a jungle age here."

"There are some indications, too, that the warm cycle may be near the top of the swing. Glaciers, which for some time have been lessening in size, have in some cases stopped reducing."

RESEARCH NEEDED

"Much more research is necessary in this field before we know if the story glaciers tell is fact or mere indication. Will man ever be able to control weather?"

"I wish I knew," the weather expert replied. "At our present stage of meteorological knowledge we don't know enough about so many things — the physics of rain formation, for instance.

"Then, few people realize the fantastic amount of energy contained in storms, even in thunderstorms. A hurricane, for instance, makes any nuclear explosion look like chicken feed."

Mr. McTaggart-Cowan said atomic tests were not affecting weather patterns.

Anne Joins Brownies

Princess Promises To Help with Dishes

LONDON (AP)—Princess Anne, second in line to the British throne, took a pledge to do what she's told.

The pledges came with official enrolment of the eight-year-old daughter of the Queen as a member of the Buckingham Palace Brownie pack, whose last previous royal recruit was Princess Margaret.

Dogs to Be Ticketed —But How?

VANCOUVER (CP)—The city's board of administration has been given the job of figuring out how dogs may be summoned.

A special committee of city council recommended Tuesday night that pound officers be given authority to issue "tickets similar to traffic tickets" for dogs without licences or caught running wild on the streets.

Corporation counsel Russell Baker said complicated legislation permits police to serve parking tickets by tucking them under windshield wipers, but "I don't see how that could be done with dogs."

The problem was passed to the board of administration for study.

Sailors for a Day

Sign Up Now for Cruise

There's still some room available for Victoria boys who would like to be "sailors for a day" on July 25—Navy Day.

Two ships of the Royal Canadian Navy that day will take 600 boys sponsored by The Daily Colonist—and a "sailor friend"—for two-hour cruises in the Strait of Juan de Fuca. While at sea the boys, from 12 to 16 years of age, will be shown the working of today's navy, some of its weapons, and the way the navy seeks and fights any enemy.

Cruises aboard HMCS Jonquiere and HMCS New Waterford will leave Ogden Point Pier A at 9 a.m., 11:20 a.m., 1:40 p.m. and 4 p.m., and the boys going along are asked to be at the dock 15 minutes ahead of sailing time for each trip.

Since "crews" will be chosen on a first-come, first-served basis, boys are urged to have the attached coupon filled out as soon as possible, and mailed as directed.

The "sailor friend," by the way, could be in your family, a neighbor, or someone you stop on the street, as long as he's in the navy.

Red Plan Gets Firm 'No'

Stopgap Berlin Pact Turned Down by West

GENEVA (AP)—The West said "no," Wednesday to the Soviet plan for a joint commission of East and West Germans as part of a stopgap Berlin agreement.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko replied that it was not possible to reach an accord of any other basis.

So it looked like a clear impasse in round two of the foreign ministers conference after only two formal sessions.

SECRET TALKS

But Gromyko and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain were reported by Western sources to have made progress in a side effort to restore secret negotiations. Gromyko has invited Lloyd to a luncheon today to discuss further secret meetings.

The Soviet plan for an interim agreement on Berlin provides for an all-German commission to work on German reunification and a German peace treaty.

The Western powers, and West Germany most of all, do not want any such commission because they believe it would be de facto recognition of the East German Communist regime. This regime they consider is not representative of the East German people.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville concentrated on trying to get Gromyko to break the tieup between the proposed commission and a truce in Berlin, which the Russians have proposed run for 18 months.

But Gromyko said the two questions of an interim settlement and an all-German commission are inseparable.

There are one cable and nine radio telephone circuits at present between France and the United States.

Texan with Dope Record Wanted in B.C. Slaying

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)

—The RCMP is reported to have asked the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation for assistance in locating a Texan, probably with a record for dope and attempted murder, in connection with a slaying near here last month.

The Texan is reported to have been in the area of McLeod Lake, 90 miles north of this north-central British Columbia city, when Bruce Worline, 30, a University of Alaska student, was killed.

Worline's bullet-riddled body was found near the lake June 29. He had been driving to his wife's parents' home in California from Alaska in a panel truck which was later found in Vancouver.

RCMP in Vancouver said Wednesday it was believed the Texan was travelling in Quebec but police here, who refused to confirm the report that the FBI is being asked for assistance, said they knew nothing of this.

Nor would Prince George RCMP confirm that an all-points call has been sent out for the Texan.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-digesting mix.

In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... unblocks it... for easier and more complete digestion.

Cartier's Little Liver Pills exclusive formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Cartier's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Cartier's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat.

Prune Wisteria for Bloom

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS
The lovely Wisteria—which should really be spelled Wistaria, in honor of Caspar Wistar—is an easy enough vine to grow. Give it a reasonably well-drained site, with lots of old manure and a bit of coarse sand mixed into its soil, and it will make rampant growth.

Getting the thing to bloom, however, is a pup from a different litter. I have seen vines which have been planted for more than 10 years, with nary a sign of a flower, and the cause of this, nine times out of 10, is lack of pruning or improper pruning.

Many gardeners never prune at all, with the result that their vines become a tangled mass of flowerless shoots. Others prune only in the spring, which gives rise to a forest of side shoots which are too soft and sappy to bloom.

If you examine your Wisteria now, you will see that from the main branches there will be quite a number of side shoots which have been formed this year. These are your potential flower carriers.

They are receiving the richest sap, but this is not enough. If you allow the present growing conditions to continue, these shoots will keep on putting on growth right through to the end of the season, when none of them will contain the smallest amount of mature or "blooming" sap.

Nor will the dormant buds in the leaf joints be well enough stocked with reserve food to guarantee one single cluster of blossoms next year.

The trick here is to put an end to this gross and uncontrolled growth, and give the shoots, in the growing time that remains to them, an opportunity to mature their sap and to fill the dormant leaf buds with plenty of reserve nutrients.

To this end, the first job is to assess the vigor of the shoots before you start pruning. Roughly, there are two kinds, very vigorous and those of medium vigor. The former must be pruned only lightly, otherwise you may throw them into secondary growth. Cut each of these rampant shoots back by about half its length.

The not-so-vigorous shoots should have two-thirds of their length removed, and in both cases, make your cut immediately above a leaf.

At the end of each main branch, there is a shoot of the current year's growth, very similar in appearance to the side shoots, but with an entirely different function. This shoot is known as a "leader," and its business is to provide for the extension of the Wisteria. Don't prune this one, but let it grow unrestrained.

This July pruning is only part of the job—an intermediate stage. Early next March, it will be necessary to get in there again, shortening still further the shoots you pruned this summer to within two buds or eyes from the base of the shoot. If this is done, your Wisteria branches should be a mass of lovely bloom chains next year.

A Fetish for Bigness

Realities Get Lost In Brilliant Gimmicks

I have not always seen eye to eye with members of religious groups in their attempts to shape the arts, especially the movies, where I think the influence has been, in the main, pernicious. But there is a book out by a Jesuit priest, Father William Lynch, called "The Image Industries," which I find a very thoughtful and constructive analysis of our movies and television.

In this book, Father Lynch makes an eloquent, sensible and frequently steel-tipped plea for the dignity, and what I like to think of as the glorification of mankind in the arts. The movies and television, says Father Lynch, not only degrade man but tend to forget humanity altogether in a pursuit of false magnificence.

In a chapter called "Magnificent Imagination," he points out that movies especially have a great fetish for bigness which stems clear back to the name of the first movie, "The Great Train Robbery," through "Birth of a Nation," an earth-shaking title if ever there was one, right up to "Around the World in Eighty Days."

We have, says Father Lynch, taken our eyes from man himself and in search of scope, we "surround him with gigantic images of space and clever, brilliant gimmicks." As a consequence the "ordinary homely realities" get lost.

This "magnification of human emotion" puts into some perspective what is happening in movies and TV and such mass culture as paper backs. "Mickey Spillane represents the one powerful undeviating emotion of vengeance. All other feelings are thrust aside and many realities with them."

"By far the most important attack quantitatively on human sensibility through the mass media comes from their unblinking reduction of art to the constant level of entertainment." In our highly technological civilization, men are increasingly passive citizens, performing during the daytime, functions which are four or five times removed from any final reality.

"The passive man will be a vacuum ready to be filled and ready to submit," writes Father Lynch. "It will be all the easier for him to be seduced. The entertainer could have no more perfect audience nor could he be supplied with more perfect conditions for his trade, whether on the part of the audience or of the medium."

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

People sit alone in the dark in the movies; they come as individuals and they leave as the same. They do not even participate in the common act of applause. Something similar happens with the TV audience, save that it is usually the family that is reduced for hours to a silent individualism, carrying their passivity right into the midst of a less and less true family relation.

"Without lifting a hand we can identify ourselves with anybody and everybody in an easy intimacy which will not disturb the sensibilities. The emotions need not be really en-

I share with Father Lynch a serious alarm that this sort of bland passive image which increasingly fills our hours is a serious menace to the ability of our people to cope with reality. Father Lynch challenges the idea that the movie and TV people can escape responsibility for their output by simply saying they are giving the people what they want. A cultural diet based on the false assumption that we are infantile may result in making us infantile and that makes the image-makers something worse than mass murderers.

The bidding in today's hand was good to the point where South jumped to four hearts. A pass with South's hand is conceivable, but a bid of three hearts—giving partner one more chance to bid game—is our choice.

The auction called for a trump lead to such an extent that West led away from the doubleton king, an unusually daring lead. Without this lead, the contract is easily made by a cross-ruff. Seven heart tricks plus the ace-king of clubs, and the ace of spades.

When the hand was played

With the heart four led, declarer won the first trick with the seven in dummy, while East played low. Declarer led a low diamond from dummy which West won with the queen. West then played the king of hearts. South could take only six heart tricks on the cross ruff now, and went down one.

South's optimistic four-heart bid would have paid off if he had found the right line of play. He should have won the first heart in his hand with the ten; played the ace and king of clubs, and ruffed a club in dummy. Now, he returns to his hand with the spade ace and ruffs another club. The ace of hearts would give declarer his seventh trick. At this point, the remaining cards would be:

Motorist Ashamed Of Himself

A city motorist who said he was "ashamed," and who apologized for the trouble he'd caused, pleaded guilty in city police court yesterday to a charge of obstructing an officer.

Raymond Moore, 540 Niagara, was fined $50, and told by Magistrate William Ostler that but for the apology the penalty might have been heavier.

Court was told accused accused parking meter commissionaire Angus Gillespie at about 4:25 p.m. July 9 on Broad, asked if he'd put two tickets on his car, and started pushing him. Then, said the commissionaire, accused took his pencil and threw it into the street.

Citizens who lay charges before the magistrate, then change their minds and ask that the charges be withdrawn when they come up in court, came in for a scolding yesterday.

This has happened several times in the last couple of weeks.

Yesterday, the informant in still another case asked that it be withdrawn. Before agreeing, Magistrate Ostler suggested that the time for "second thoughts" was before the charge was laid; that each such action was costly and time-consuming for the court.

Finally, the informant was assessed $5 costs.

Reporter Buys Fresh Milk For Suspects

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two Ottawa youths, held here for theft of $70,000 from an Ottawa bank, were drinking fresh milk yesterday because of a $2 gift.

Richard Boudreau and Gerald W. Leclerc, both 19, were given the money by Pliny Castanien, San Diego Union police reporter.

"I felt sorry for them," said Castanien. "After all, from $70,000 to nothing is a big come-down."

The youths, who will be deported to Canada as soon as transportation is arranged, had complained about powdered milk served city jail prisoners.

Blind 'Hear' Fountain, Feel Garden

Blind residents of the CNIB villas at 950 Humboldt have been given a touch of nature they can enjoy in their own front yard—a water fountain and miniature water garden.

They will be able to "visualize" the fountain and garden by listening to the splashing of numerous small waterfalls and by touching the various plants and driftwood placed about it.

The $1,500 centenary project of Municipal Chapter, JODE, along with a plaque, was presented this week by the chapter's regent, Mrs. Owen Fowler, to Brig. F. N. Cabeldu, chairman of CNIB Housing Ltd., during a brief ceremony at the villas.

Equal Time Rule To Exclude News

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate commerce committee approved a bill Wednesday to exempt newscasts and other news programs from a requirement that political candidates be given equal time on radio and television broadcasts.

Tired but Smiling, Queen Boards Ship

VANCOUVER (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip boarded HMCS Assiniboine here at 10.35 p.m. PDT for a leisurely cruise across the Strait of Georgia to Nanaimo, ending a hectic 12-hour visit to New Westminster and Vancouver. It was obvious the Queen was weary but she still smiled at some remark the Captain made as she went aboard.

After CPR

Scurrah Backs Ferry

Mayor Percy Scurrah gave unqualified support yesterday to an Oak Bay plan to ask the provincial government to seek a CPR or Black Ball ferry service from Sidney to the mainland after September, when CPR sailings from Victoria end.

Oak Bay will ask the government to seek such a service until the new government ferry service begins.

"I certainly will support that idea," Mayor Scurrah said.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said his council would decide whether or not it would give its support. But personally, he said, he believed the matter was "a little outside the province" of a municipal council.

Parliament Acts

Humane Killing Passed

OTTAWA (UPI)—The House of Commons last night passed legislation to provide for the humane slaughter of animals used for food, despite opposition protests that it didn't say just what "humane slaughter" was.

Third reading was given the bill after defeat of a Liberal amendment aimed at protection of "any religious rights or practices presently enjoyed by anyone in Canada."

Bennett Bets His Road Is Faster

LADNER, B.C. (CP)—Premier Bennett said yesterday he has a $1 bet with Governor Albert Rosellini of Washington State over who will have a first-class highway built to the United States border first.

The premier disclosed the bet to a crowd of about 3,000 who were on hand to witness the opening of the $23,000,000 Deas Island Tunnel across the Fraser River near here.

The tunnel is part of a four-lane freeway which will eventually be extended to the border.

"I don't know yet whether it will be paid off in American or the Canadian dollar," he said.

Kamloops Plane Crash Kills Two

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Two men were killed Wednesday night when their light training plane crashed and burned during an attempted landing here. The victims were not immediately identified.

The plane struck a telephone line, somersaulted and exploded about one-half mile from the airfield. The bodies were badly burned.

GAY, SPRUCED-UP VICTORIA AWAITS QUEEN'S ARRIVAL

All Hotels, Motels Jammed As Thousands Flock Here

Victoria is ready.

The streets have been cleaned and the flags and pennants — more than 3,000 flags and pennants — have been hung.

New gilt paint has been worked into the carved lettering on the statue of Queen Victoria in front of the legislative buildings and the cenotaph has been thoroughly scrubbed.

SHORT ONE STAR

The Union Jack is running a close second to the Red Ensign and at least one 48-star United States flag flies in casual disregard of the fate of Alaska.

The message "Victoria Welcomes Her Majesty" is ready to carve its bright image into the night sky over Government Street above the Causeway, and the lush lawn of the Empress Hotel has been freshly cut.

BLUE CANOPY

A royal blue canopy has been erected at the entrance to the legislative buildings where Queen Elizabeth will be welcomed to Canada's only city bearing the name of a once-reigning British monarch.

The ceremonies at the legislative buildings start at 5.10 p.m. today and are scheduled to last an hour.

ARRIVAL TIME

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip are expected to reach Government House at 3.45 p.m. after a motor trip down the Island from Nanaimo. (See adjoining royal procession route.)

Thousands upon thousands of visitors poured into the city yesterday from up-Island points, the United States and the British Columbia mainland.

HOTELS JAMMED

Hotels are jammed and there is hardly a vacant motel unit within five miles of the heart of the city.

"We had no idea it would be anything like this," said a motel proprietor who one month ago reported not a single reservation for the week of the royal tour.

"We're putting up a Portland couple in our own home," said the manager of another auto court.

CAUGHT UNAWARES

"They just seemed to come so quickly that they caught us without all our units made up," said still another.

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau has been deluged with calls from tourists who want accommodation in or close to the city.

They have also had their share of unusual requests.

SPECIAL REQUESTS

An eastern photographer who many years ago took a picture of a group of the Queen's ancestors, asked if a ceremony could be arranged so he could present the royal couple with a copy of the picture.

A retired American general telephoned long-distance from the U.S. to see if he could reserve a seat near the Queen for the military presentation of the color scheduled for Friday in Beacon Hill Park.

VACATIONS EXTENDED

Tourist officials said many of Victoria's visitors, here for several days already, are extending their vacations just so they can see Her Majesty.

"Weather outlook for the three-day visit of the Queen is bright, according to Victoria weatherman William Mackie. Tens of thousands of Victorians and visitors are expected to line city streets later today when the royal cavalcade cruises onto Douglas Street from the Island Highway about 3.10 p.m.

Busload Snarled In Red Tape

Angry Americans Leave Vowing Never to Return

A chartered busload of indignant United States tourists left Victoria last night vowing never to return.

The organizer of the tour, Mrs. Esther James of Salt Lake City, who has been conducting an average of four tours of Western Canada each year, departed vowing she wouldn't be bringing any more to this country.

The ill feeling arose when the tour got snarled up in regulations and the 31 members, mostly elderly, abandoned cherished plans to visit Butchart Gardens.

Mrs. James said she was refused permission to take the members of her tour party from downtown Victoria to Butchart Gardens in the chartered bus driven by Marvin Dieter of Salt Lake City.

NO COMPLICATION

The group had come ashore in Sidney from the Washington State ferry earlier in the day and had driven into Victoria from there without complication.

In Victoria the bus was parked while the tourist group went on a Tally-Ho tour. When they returned to their bus,

'Good Time Until Victoria'

eager to visit the famous gardens at Brentwood, they ran into trouble.

Mrs. James said her driver found a note in the bus saying "See me before you leave the city" and signed by "a Mr. Cox of Blue Line."

She said when her driver did as requested he was asked "What are you trying to do? Are you trying to pick up passengers in the city?"

CHECK WITH PUC

When her driver replied "No, I'm not," he was told to check with the Public Utilities Commission, Mrs. James said.

B. L. Cox, supervisor for Royal Blue Line Tours confirmed that he had asked the American bus driver to "drop into" his office.

The supervisor said he asked the visiting driver if he had proper permits and licences to come into the province and if they were planning a sight-seeing tour.

He said when the driver told him "Yes" he advised him to get in touch with the PUC.

FRANCHISED AREA

"They were coming into a franchised area where operators pay heavy taxes and licences to transport tourists about," the Victoria tour supervisor said.

"They could have left their coach in town and travelled otherwise (to Butchart's Gardens) or each passenger could have paid the regular $3.50 rate charged by local carriers," he pointed out.

Publicity bureau director George I. Warren said the Blue Line supervisor "had no right interfering."

If the bus had permits and licences to enter the province in the first place they should be able to tour where they want to, he said.

Where to See Queen Today

For the hundreds hoping to see Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip during their drives through Victoria today, here again are their routes and the slow areas for best viewing:

3.30 p.m.—After driving in Island Highway, party arrives on Douglas at Fisgard; slow on Douglas to Yates; to Cook; medium Cook to Rockland to Government House.

5 p.m.—Medium speed Government House on Rockland to Moss to Fort to Blanshard; slow on Fort to Douglas, Belleville, Menzies to legislative buildings.

6.15 p.m.—From legislative buildings, slow on Belleville, Government, Herald, North Park, Quadra, Pandora, Oak Bay and Rockland to Government House.

KATOWICE, Poland (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev delivered an attack on religion Wednesday before a crowd of Roman Catholic Poles.

The 66-year-old Soviet leader, looking weary and worn, arrived in this mining town with Polish Communist chief Wladislaw Gomułka.

"I do not want to wound your religious sentiments," Khrushchev said, "but I want to underline that priests in your church promise you paradise in the sky after you are dead. But we Communists make you happy on earth."

Belgian Plane Forced Down By Red Jets

VIENNA (UPI)—A Communist Hungarian MiG jet buzzed a Belgian airliner that strayed off its path in bad weather yesterday and forced it to land on Hungarian soil. It was permitted to leave an hour later.

Fifty-four persons were aboard the airliner, a Sabena four-engine DC-6, en route from Beirut, Lebanon, and Athens to Vienna and Brussels. The passengers were not molested while the crew was questioned.

Photographic staff of The Daily Colonist has been doubled for the period of the royal tour in order to bring readers two or three extra pages of pictures a day while Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip are in Victoria. Watch for first extra pictures pages tomorrow.

Beautiful But Still Remote

Power project has raised level of famous Buttle Lake in Vancouver Island interior since this picture was taken, but trout fishing is reported as good as ever and scenery little changed. Access is still a problem.

Let Campers Use That Gem

Please, Mr. Gaglardi Fix Buttle Lake Road

By ALEC MERRIMAN

PARKSVILLE — Oh please Mr. Gaglardi fix that road into Buttle Lake. And please Mr. Westwood get your park crews into the lake and provide some facilities for the hundreds of campers who are using and wish to use that little gem in the wilderness where the trout are biting like crazy.

Millions of dollars extra have been spent to preserve the amenities of Buttle Lake—and a good job has been done of clearing and grubbing right up to the new raised water line—but the job is only half done.

Conservationists who fought a long and hard battle to preserve Buttle Lake won a major victory when strict provisions to preserve the amenities of the lake were placed on the water licence which gave the B.C. Power Commission the right to dam and raise the level of the lake by 19 feet.

Those provisions included the clearing and provision of camping areas and a boat launching ramp. The BCPC was to provide the money to develop the area as the provincial park service directed.

But in the reorganization of the newly formed department of recreation and conservation that part of the agreement seems to have been forgotten.

Well known conservationist Roderick Haig-Brown, who was one of the leaders in the fight to save Buttle Lake points out. He warns that the area around Buttle is in danger of being contaminated by campers who are using the lake when no facilities have been provided.

Actually one outhouse has been provided at Buttle Lake and several rough areas have been bulldozed where campers may pitch a tent or launch a boat. But the areas are dusty and rough gravel not at all like the water licence provision led conservationists to believe would be built.

What are needed are some more attractive cleared areas some of which would only be accessible by boat, more outhouses and a few thick tables would be desirable. But the real need is a proper road into the lake.

The current strike of IWA workers has emphasized the immediate need for action on a proper road. Just as soon as the strike was called the "Elk River Timber Company, a company never highly regarded for its public relations, clamped a full closure on its logging road which makes comfortable riding into Buttle Lake. The excuse given was that provision could not be made to keep the road graded, which on the surface appears a flimsy enough excuse, although the company probably has a full right to close off its road.

Millions of extra dollars spent by the BCPC to grub and clear Buttle Lake will be almost wasted unless the government makes proper arrangements with the company for full access on the logging road, or immediately fixes up the government road into the scenic lake.

Some vacationers are now getting to the lake—there were about a dozen tents and trailers in there last week—but it seems mandatory that proper access be given to the thousands who want to see the lake; recently described as Vancouver Island's last wilderness park area.

The government road which needs fixing is about nine miles of rugged trail midway on the way to Buttle. It now takes about 35 minutes to travel but is passable at slow speeds for any car which is not too low slung.

A week's work by a grader could make a tremendous improvement. The rest of the road along past Forbes Landing and the BCPC road along Upper Campbell and on to Buttle is in fair shape as gravel roads go.

The 35 miles from Campbell River to Buttle Lake can be made in under two hours and the end result is well worth while.

Upper Campbell Lake which is now really a part of Buttle Lake is still being cleared and there are huge piles of timber on the shore placed ready for burning. But Buttle is pretty well cleared and the BCPC is to be congratulated for that job. There are a score of places on Upper Campbell and Buttle where boats may be launched. There are also two places on Upper Campbell where boats may be rented and almost anyone can get limit on trout in an hour or so with gang troll and worms and flatfish providing the best lures.

Although the level of the lake has been raised there is little evidence of the mammoth logging and grubbing job which precluded the flooding.

It was the most thorough grubbing job ever undertaken in Canada in connection with a dam construction project but the results appear justified.

Car drivers in Victoria are reminded by city police of driving and parking restrictions in force during the royal visit today and Friday.

Deputy Chief Harry Mercer has asked for co-operation from all concerned, to permit smoothest possible flow of traffic at all times.

All traffic must keep off routes being used by the royal tour party. Motorcycle officers will precede the official cars, and all cross streets will be closed off until the party has passed.

CLOSED TO TRAFFIC

This afternoon, during ceremonies at the Legislative Buildings, streets in that area will be closed to traffic at 4:30 p.m. These include Humboldt, Douglas, Superior and Oswego streets and those contained in that area.

There will be no parking from 3 p.m. today on Oswego from Superior to Belleville; on Belleville from Douglas to Oswego; on Menzies from Belleville to Kingston; and on Government from Belleville to Humboldt.

Friday at 9:30 a.m. the Beacon Hill Park area will be closed off, including Government and Dallas, Simcoe and Douglas, and roads in the park leading to Dallas and Douglas.

Around the Island

Island Awaits Queen

The stage is set in Nanaimo and other Island spots for the visit of the Queen and Prince Philip today.

The royal couple arrives at the CPR dock, Nanaimo, at 10 a.m. and following a slow drive through the city, will spend about 25 minutes at Exhibition Park where work was almost completed late last night on an Indian Village.

Upwards of 10,000 persons are expected to crowd to Exhibition Park this morning to see the arrival of the royal party and the ceremonies.

Along the route down Island thousands more are waiting for a glimpse of the Queen and Prince Philip.

Here's the full Island agenda exclusive of the Victoria part of the program:

10 a.m.—Royal party arrives at Nanaimo aboard HMCS Assiniboine; 10:20, Exhibition Park; 10:45, leave for Chemainus allowing time for slow drives through Nanaimo, Cedar and Ladysmith.

View Royal Muddle
As Foggy as Ever

What happens next in View Royal's village incorporation muddle seems to be anyone's guess.

Normally, when 60 per cent of resident property owners of an area petition for incorporation of a village municipality, the provincial government, by order in council, authorizes a vote.

But in View Royal, 529 of the 814 eligible persons signed an incorporation petition, and then an anti-incorporation committee announced it had obtained 460 signatures on a counter-petition, leading to the conclusion that some property-owners had changed their minds.

An official of the municipal affairs department indicated yesterday that no ready solution had been found to the problem thus posed, and that the question would require further study.

Yacht Makes Sooke
On Voyage to U.K.

A 24-foot ketch, the Idler, which left Victoria, Monday, for England only to become the object of a wide search when she failed to get across Juan de Fuca Strait, was found safe in Sooke Inlet.

She is manned by Mr. and Mrs. Ian Critchley of Vancouver and their friend Jim Stewart.

While heading for Neah Bay on the Washington state side of Juan de Fuca Strait, the Idler developed trouble in her auxiliary motor, and turned back to Sooke. Yesterday she came back to Victoria for repairs.

Fears for the craft were expressed when she failed to reach Neah Bay, and the U.S. Coast Guard was alerted. A Coast Guard plane later reported the Idler at ease at Sooke.

SPRUCED-UP CITY WAITING

After CPR

Scurrah Backs Ferry

Mayor Percy Scurrah gave unqualified support yesterday to an Oak Bay plan to ask the provincial government to seek a CPR or Black Ball ferry service from Sidney to the mainland after September, when CPR sailings from Victoria end.

Oak Bay will ask the government to seek such a service until the new government ferry service begins.

"I certainly will support that idea," Mayor Scurrah said.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said his council would decide whether or not it would give its support. But personally, he said, he believed the matter was "a little outside the province" of a municipal council.

Parliament Acts

Humane Killing Passed

OTTAWA (UPI)—The House of Commons last night passed legislation to provide for the humane slaughter of animals used for food, despite opposition protests that it "didn't say just what 'humane slaughter' was."

Third reading was given the bill after defeat of a Liberal amendment aimed at protection of "any religious rights or practices presently enjoyed by anyone in Canada."

Bennett Bets

His Road Is Faster

LADNER, B.C. (CP)—Premier Bennett said yesterday he has a $1 bet with Governor Albert Rosellini of Washington State over who will have a first-class highway built to the United States border first.

The premier disclosed the bet to a crowd of about 3,000 who were on hand to witness the opening of the $23,000,000 Deas Island Tunnel across the Fraser River near here.

The tunnel is part of a four-lane freeway which will eventually be extended to the border.

"I don't know yet whether it will be paid off in American or the Canadian dollar," he said.

Kamloops Plane Crash Kills Two

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Two men were killed Wednesday night when their light training plane crashed and burned during an attempted landing here.

The victims were not immediately identified.

The plane struck a telephone line, somersaulted and exploded about one-half mile from the airfield. The bodies were badly burned.

Busload Snarled In Red Tape

Angry Americans Leave Vowing Never to Return

A chartered busload of indignant United States tourists left Victoria last night vowing never to return.

The organizer of the tour, Mrs. Esther James of Salt Lake City, who has been conducting an average of four tours of Western Canada each year, departed vowing she wouldn't be bringing any more to this country.

The ill feeling arose when the tour got snarled up in regulations and the 31 members, mostly elderly, abandoned cherished plans to visit Butchart Gardens.

Mrs. James said she was refused permission to take the members of her tour party from downtown Victoria to Butchart Gardens in the chartered bus driven by Marvin Dieter of Salt Lake City.

NO COMPLICATION

The group had come ashore in Sidney from the Washington State ferry earlier in the day and had driven into Victoria from there without complication.

In Victoria the bus was parked while the tourist group went on a Tally-Ho tour. When they returned to their bus,

'Good Time Until Victoria'

eager to visit the famous gardens at Brentwood, they ran into trouble.

Mrs. James said her driver found a note in the bus saying "See me before you leave the city" and signed by "a Mr. Cox of Blue Line."

She said when her driver did as requested he was asked "What are you trying to do? Are you trying to pick up passengers in the city?"

CHECK WITH PUC When her driver replied "No, I'm not," he was told to check with the Public Utilities Commission, Mrs. James said.

B. L. Cox, supervisor for Royal Blue Line Tours, confirmed that he had asked the American bus driver to "drop into" his office.

The supervisor said he asked the visiting driver if he had proper permits and licences to come into the province and if they were planning a sight-seeing tour.

He said when the driver told him "Yes" he advised him to get in touch with the PUC.

FRANCHISED AREA

"They were coming into a franchised area where operators pay heavy taxes and licences to transport tourists about," the Victoria tour supervisor said.

"They could have left their coach in town and travelled otherwise (to Butchart Gardens) or each passenger could have paid the regular $3.50 rate charged by local carriers," he pointed out.

Publicity bureau director George L. Warren said the Blue Line supervisor "had no right interfering."

If the bus had permits and licences to enter the province in the first place they should be able to tour where they want to, he said.

"It is certainly a shame they left our Island with a bad taste before something could be arranged," he said.

While waiting for a Washington State ferry to take the touring party back to Anacortes last night Mrs. James said she had phoned the Public Utilities Commission and was told "we couldn't go to the gardens unless our permit was altered to allow us to charge the regular fare."

She said by this time the group had become so discouraged and disgusted they decided to return to Sidney and the return ferry and forego the gardens tour.

"We were very happy about Canada on our 10-day tour up to that point," Mrs. James said. "But we feel differently now—especially about Victoria."

"I have enough trouble with my own passengers without trying to pick up others," she said. "I have spent more than $2,500 on this Canadian trip in meals and accommodation. The passengers also spend plenty as they travel. The trip was wonderful until we got to Victoria."

All Hotels, Motels Jammed As Thousands Flock Here

Victoria is ready.

The streets have been cleaned and the flags and pennants — more than 3,000 flags and pennants — have been hung.

New gilt paint has been worked into the carved lettering on the statue of Queen Victoria in front of the legislative buildings and the cenotaph has been thoroughly scrubbed.

SHORT ONE STAR

The Union Jack is running a close second to the Red Ensign and at least one 48-star United States flag flies in casual disregard of the fate of Alaska.

The message "Victoria Welcomes Her Majesty" is ready to carve its bright image into the night sky over Government Street above the Causeway, and the lush lawn of the Empress Hotel has been freshly cut.

BLUE CANOPY

A royal blue canopy has been erected at the entrance to the legislative buildings where Queen Elizabeth will be welcomed to Canada's only city bearing the name of a once-reigning British monarch.

The ceremonies at the legislative buildings start at 5.10 p.m. today and are scheduled to last an hour.

ARRIVAL TIME

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip are expected to reach Government House at 3.45 p.m. after a motor trip down the Island from Nanaimo. (See adjoining royal procession route.)

Thousands upon thousands of visitors poured into the city yesterday from up-Island points, the United States and the British Columbia mainland.

HOTELS JAMMED

Hotels are jammed and there is hardly a vacant motel unit within five miles of the heart of the city.

"We had no idea it would be anything like this," said a motel proprietor who one month ago reported not a single reservation for the week of the royal tour.

"We're putting up a Portland couple in our own home," said the manager of another auto court.

CAUGHT UNAWARES

"They just seemed to come so quickly that they caught us without all our units made up," said still another.

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau has been deluged with calls from tourists who want accommodation in or close to the city.

They have also had their share of unusual requests.

SPECIAL REQUESTS

An eastern photographer who many years ago took a picture of a group of the Queen's ancestors, asked if a ceremony could be arranged so he could present the royal couple with a copy of the picture.

A retired American general telephoned long-distance from the U.S. to see if he could reserve a seat near the Queen for the military presentation of the color scheduled for Friday in Beacon Hill Park.

VACATIONS EXTENDED

Tourist officials said many of Victoria's visitors, here for several days already, are extending their vacations "just so they can see Her Majesty."

Weather outlook for the three-day visit of the Queen is bright, according to Victoria weatherman William Mackie.

Tens of thousands of Victorians and visitors are expected to line city streets later today when the royal cavalcade cruises onto Douglas Street from the Island Highway about 3.10 p.m.

Where to See Queen Today

For the hundreds hoping to see Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip during their drives through Victoria today, here again are their routes and the slow areas for best viewing:

3.30 p.m.—After driving in Island Highway, party arrives on Douglas at Fisgard; slow on Douglas to Yates; to Cook; medium Cook to Rockland to Government House.

5 p.m.—Medium speed Government House on Rockland to Moss to Fort to Blanshard; slow on Fort to Douglas, Belleville, Menzies to legislative buildings.

6.15 p.m.—From legislative buildings, slow on Belleville, Government, Herald, North Park, Quadra, Pandora, Oak Bay and Rockland to Government House.

To Catholic Poles

Nikita Raps Religion

KATOWICE, Poland (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev delivered an attack on religion Wednesday before a crowd of Roman Catholic Poles.

The 66-year-old Soviet leader, looking weary and worn, arrived in this mining town with Polish Communist chief Wladislaw Gomulka.

"I do not want to wound your religious sentiments," Khrushchev said, "but I want to underline that priests in your church promise you paradise in the sky after you are dead. But we Communists make you happy on earth."

Man, 77 Beaten, Robbed

An elderly Victorian was attacked in his home on quiet Balmoral Street, beaten about the head and robbed of an amount reported to be about $100 early today.

Samuel Smith, 77, 1017 Balmoral, was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital shortly before 1 a.m. from his one-storey frame cottage. He was suffering from head injuries and shock, hospital authorities said, but was conscious when brought in.
